Saint Patrick, Unafraid.
Let the People Know.
So, He Took $75,000.
Lips That Touch Wine.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MANY HONOR St. Patrick on this 17th of March, and he deserves honor, because he knew no fear. He did not dread the savage Irish wolfhounds that filled the ship on which he returned from Ireland after his first visit.

He did not fear the savage Irish king who sat in his hall of Tara, wrapped in a raw bull's hide, and wearing nothing else, according to the old French chronicles.

ST. PATRICK is said to have driven the snakes out of Ireland. How welcome he would be here if he could drive certain human snakes out of this country, bootleggers, racketeers, hijackers and others that have become so numerous since prohibition came to make of ours "a perfectly happy land."

IF YOU have something that the people want, let them know and you can sell it, good times or bad.

Mr. Strong, president of the Buick Company, knows that, and proves it. Publishers will learn with interest that in what remains of this month and in early April, he will spend one million dollars in advertising, telling people what he has and emphasizing one particular point, to utilize THE POWER OF REPETITION.

Beginning last Tuesday Buick advertising appeared in over 2,000 newspapers, throughout the country, also in the leading general magazines.

TODAY, 22,000 Western Union messenger boys will deliver 600,000 telegrams, all containing the same message about Buick.

This is REALLY ADVERTISING, for it combines the power of simplicity with the great power of repetition.

You can't make business better merely by talking about it.

OF ALL news items on today's bill of fare, the one interesting a majority of Americans is the fact that "Babe" Ruth consents to accept $75,000 for playing baseball next year. He wanted $80,000.

The public is interested in money, deeply interested in baseball and the art of applying power at the end of a bat. It is especially interested in personality. "Babe" Ruth has it.

OTHER ITEMS less important, but interesting, are these:

Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, was running ahead of Gov. Murray in North Dakota yesterday.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union says it can support Hoover and McAdoo for the presidency, not anybody else. Speaker Garner, Gov. Roosevelt, Gov. Ritchie, Newton D. Baker, former Gov. Smith will not do. The motto, "Lips that touch wine shall never touch mine," governs the decision.

THE LAST words of able men are interesting. George D'Utassy suggests this contrast:

Cecil Rhodes—"So much to do—so little done."

George Eastman—"My work is done. Why wait?"

Fortunate he who can say:

"My work is done."

So many leave the world feeling that they have done nothing, or at best only a small part of what might have been done with harder work and greater devotion.

THE INTERSTATE Commerce Commission forbids the Pullman Company, which renders great public service and has a hard time making it pay, to charge extra when one berth is occupied by two passengers. Why the forbidding?

A hotel charges more when two sleep in one room. The Pullman Company supplies special service, comfort and safety to the extra passenger. It depends for its prosperity on the number of passengers carried. Why should it not charge reasonably for service rendered? The proposed charge is reasonable, only one-fifth the fare for one.

THE LEAGUE of Nations has been notified that a "Shanghai truce" has been arranged. Japan and China will talk things over secretly and then let the league know what they decide to do. It is difficult to arrange a real truce between a small boy and a watermelon patch. China is the patch, Japan the small boy.

THE SALES tax will probably go through, somewhat modified, thanks to the assistance of Mr. Curry, head of Tammany Hall. His organization has 20 votes in Congress. Congressman Rainey, of Illinois, tells William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who opposes the sales tax:

"If you beat that tax it will be necessary for the government to reduce substantially the pay of all government employes."

AIMEE SEMPLE McPherson-Hutton, working too hard, is taken to a hospital for blood transfusion. Materialists may suggest that too much of the wrong kind of blood might change the evangelist's character.

She knows that her work is done with the soul—the body has nothing to do with it. It must be a great comfort to believe as Mrs. McPherson-Hutton does that when she goes to Heaven she will be met at the gate by thousands saying:

"Welcome. But for you we should not be here."

Chief Urges Police Unity in Lindy Baby Hunt

Daily Communique Carries Another List of Clues Exploded by Investigation

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

TRENTON, N. J., March 17.—While the head of the New Jersey State Association of Police Chiefs urged concerted action by police, elimination of further theories and "clues" in connection with the 16-day Lindbergh baby kidnaping mystery was contained in the official police communique.

The negative substance of the forenoon bulletin read:

That the whereabouts of two former servants of Mrs. C. Leandro Lightfoot, of Franklin Park, N. J., had no connection with the case and that Lightfoot has found the chisel which he claimed to have lost.

That a baby examined at Creston, Ia., was found not to be the missing infant.

AUTO CLUE FAILS

That a blue sedan with New York plates reported to have been seen near Dunellen, N. J., the day before the kidnaping at Hopewell was of "no importance" as the occupants had been seen in the region several times since.

That no report has been received from the New York state police concerning clothing found by them which has any importance in the case.

That no report has been received by Newark and New Jersey police concerning their investigation into a kidnaping plot revealed by a New York prisoner.

That there was no knowledge by police that the Lindberghs had employed a private detective agency to assist in the search for the kidnaped baby.

There was considerable conjecture today concerning the mys-

B. & O. LIMITED DERAILED

BALTIMORE, March 17.—(AP.)—Passengers aboard the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad were shaken, but no one hurt when the fast train from Chicago to New York was derailed at Weverton, Md., at 7:27 a. m. today.

Three sleepers, the club car, dining car and locomotive tender left the rails, but none of them tipped over.

Officials of the railroad company here stated that the accident was caused by the wheel on the left side of the locomotive tank breaking out, causing the wheel on the opposite side to drop in. The engineer reported the train was running about 40 miles an hour at the time.

A Detroit-Washington train following less than three-quarters of an hour later was stopped at Weverton and the passengers transferred to it.

Florida Minister Held in Slaying

PALATKA, Fla., March 17.—(INS.)—Murder was charged by a grand jury today to the Rev. Earl H. McGaha, militant preacher and prohibitionist, for the slaying of John W. Malone, alleged whisky still operator.

Malone was shot to death when the preacher accompanied officers in a raid on the still last Christmas day. He claimed he tripped and his shotgun was accidentally discharged.

Girl Admits $350 'Hosiery Bank' Robbery

KATHERINE SEIBERT

Razor Used to Cut Friend's Stocking, Court Informed

Katherine Seibert, 19, of 4922 Liberty avenue, admitted in Morals Court today she had cut the foot off a stocking of a woman friend with a razor blade and took $350 which the latter had concealed there. She was held for court on a larceny charge.

Mrs. Jessie Lekas, 30, of 2741 Liberty avenue, testified she was sleeping in her room following a drinking party when the girl took the money which belonged to Mrs. Lekas' brother-in-law as compensation from the government.

The girl testified she had given the money to a friend named "Johnny" and he failed to return it. She had been staying with Mrs. Lekas for several days, according to the testimony.

Cashier of Hopewell Bank Kills Himself

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 17.—(AP.)—Theodore M. Hall, 60, cashier of the Hopewell National Bank, shot himself in the cellar of his home today and died soon afterward.

Officials of the bank said the institution's affairs were in good order. Mrs. Hall said her husband, who had been with the bank since it was founded in 1890, had been suffering from a nervous disorder for months, and that he had not shown any signs of breakdown because of worry about the Lindbergh kidnaping here.

J. V. Thompson Ill, Feared Near Death

COUNTY KILLS JOB BOND VOTE

POWERS LOSES HOPE IN LAST APPEAL

'Bluebeard' Composes Song; Sister of Victim Asks to Witness His Execution

BULLETIN.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 17.—(AP.)—Gov. Conley was asked by telephone today to grant a stay of execution to Harry F. Powers, condemned to die tomorrow night. The Governor said he would give the matter "careful consideration."

Attorney J. Ed Law, who in the last two days has made two attempts to halt the execution to permit carrying Powers' case to the United States Supreme Court, called the Governor from Clarksburg and made the request.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 17.—(AP.)—Harry F. Powers said today his counsel planned to carry to the United States Supreme Court the mass killer's fight to escape the gallows. He denied again that he had killed Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, of Northboro, Mass.

The rotund "Mail Order Romeo," seemingly more interested in other things than the fight for his life, said that he has composed a song. He did not disclose its nature, nor even the title.

It is to be copyrighted, he said, and the proceeds from its sale are to go to his wife.

GIVES UP HOPE

The condemned man, with less than 36 hours to live, does not think that an appeal to the United States Supreme Court or the Governor for executive clemency—his last remaining hopes—will do much good, he said.

The State Supreme Court at Charleston yesterday refused to intervene in his case. Judge William Baker, of the United States District Court at Clarksburg, denied a writ of habeas corpus. Two things may intervene to stay the hanging set for tomorrow night: The Governor may grant a reprieve, or a writ of supersedeas may be granted to allow an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

J. Ed Law, Powers' attorney, contends his client had not had a fair deal, that he could not be given a fair trial in Harrison County, where he was tried; that the jury was prejudiced, and that holding the trial in an opera house was prejudicial.

ASKS TO SEE HANGING

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 17.—(AP.)—Sheriff W. B. Grimm left Clarksburg this morning for Moundsville to be a witness for Harrison County at the execution of Harry F. Powers at the state penitentiary at Moundsville, at 9 o'clock tomorrow night. While the sheriff said he expected to confer with Powers today and tomorrow, he did not devulge the nature of his business.

Mrs. Charles Flemming, of Northboro, Mass., sister of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, the latter of whom Powers was convicted of murdering, has asked to be admitted to see the hanging, but, in the opinion of local officers, she will be refused admittance by Warden A. C. Scroggins.

Only once in the history of the state penitentiary has a women been permitted to see a hanging. She was a Mrs. Layman, of Fairmont, sister of former Gov. E. F. Morgan. She saw the execution of members of the Mafia society from Harrison County.

REED REFUTES PLAN TO CUT BRITISH DEBT

Senator Denies Report of Mellon's Being Told to Negotiate on Revision

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—A Democratic attack in the Senate today against revision of the British war debt owed to America brought a denial from Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, on behalf of President Hoover that the subject was even under consideration.

Senator Reed specified that the "question had not been discussed" with Ambassador Mellon, who is about to sail for his London post.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, had quoted from a newspaper story published here today saying that Mellon was favorably inclined for revision of the British debt. Robinson warned that any revision would be very carefully considered by Congress.

After Senator Connally (Dem.), of Texas, challenged the administration to state its position, Senator Reed, who had just returned to the floor, said:

"I am authorized to say that there is not a word of truth in the newspaper article."

Reed said the debts should not be reduced or forgiven because America had already been generous and should not be asked to go further. He said:

"Congress has decided plainly, and it has been practically unanimously agreed in both Houses of Congress that the burden of the war debts must rest where it properly belongs, on the people who get the money."

Replying to a question from Connally, Reed reiterated that he was speaking with the authority of the President.

SMITH SCORES PHILA G. O. P.

Ralph H. Smith, chairman of the Independent Republican campaign, today started the primary fireworks with a talk in the Y. W. C. A., Chatham street, in which he attacked the Philadelphia political machine for sidetracking Judge Joseph Stadtfeld.

He outlined the list of office seekers the Independents would support, including Gen. Smedley D. Butler for the Senate, Charles A. Waters for state treasurer, William Linn for Supreme Court, and the three sitting judges, Stadtfeld, Parker and Gawthrop for Superior Court.

Mrs. Lois McBride was chairman of the meeting, which was sponsored by the Women's Political Education Association.

Smith explained the status of financial affairs in Allegheny County and its municipalities. He said out of every dollar of future taxes, over 37 cents had already been spent.

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—(AP.)—Friends of Ann Dvorak, who recently was signed for leading roles by Warner Brothers film studios, and Leslie Fenton, also of the screen, said the couple planned to go by airplane to Yuma, Ariz., to be married this afternoon.

Miss Dvorak recently was selected to lead in "Central Park," which is to be filmed in New York City. Fenton is well known for his performance in "What Price Glory?"

Baker's Grandson To Wed English Girl

Radcliffe, of England, was announced here today. St. George's mother, Mrs. Howard St. George, inherited $5,000,000 under the will of Baker, her father.

Musician Divorces Golf-Playing Wife

MRS. MARGARET R. CURRY . . DIVORCED BY GEORGE M. CURRY

Mrs. Curry, musician and onetime Pittsburgh women's municipal golf champion, whose husband, a musician, 5451 Rosetta street, today was granted a divorce. He charged desertion, contended that he was a "golf widower." This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Never Home, Asserts 'Widower,' Suing Ex-Title Holder

George M. Curry, 35, of 5451 Rosetta street, a musician in the Stanley Theater orchestra, today was granted a divorce from Margaret R. Curry, former municipal golf champion, on grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Curry is also a musician and at one time was conductor of an orchestra in the Hotel Henry.

Curry said in his testimony that he was a golf widower, his wife preferring her game to household duties.

They were married, he said, in September, 1923, and separated in November, 1929, adding:

"She just decided to leave. That was all. When I came home November 12, she was gone.

"We had words at times, because she continually played golf. She was an excellent golfer, but would never be home at night when I came home."

Aimee Gets Benefit From Transfusion

LOS ANGELES, March 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, showed a prompt favorable reaction to a blood transfusion, her physicians said today.

A bulletin issued by Dr. Mackenzie Jones and Dr. J. Willoughby Howe, who performed the operation early yesterday at the Monte Sano Hospital, said she was "doing splendidly." A pint of blood was furnished by Lester J. Haye, an assistant Y. M. C. A. secretary. David Hutton, the evangelist's husband, was present.

Ohio Governer Acts To Help Unemployed

COLUMBUS, O., March 17.—(INS.)—Twenty million dollars worth of help from the state government was pledged to Ohio's poor and unemployed today.

Yielding to a demand which has been pressed for many months, Gov. George White last night decided to call the state legislature into special session to enact relief measures including an increased tax on public utilities.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM BRIDGE

Robert S. McWhorter, 52, crippled steel worker, of 233 East Seventeenth avenue, Homestead, leaped to his death in Monongahela River from Brown's Bridge this morning, the Coroner was notified. His body was recovered a few hundred feet down stream a short time later.

McWhorter, who wore a wooden leg, as a result of an accident in a mill years ago, left his hat and coat on the bridge. In the pocket of the coat was a note unaddressed and unsigned written on the back of a numbers lottery ticket, which read:

"When all is said, I would have to die to get you on your feet. I guess you will get your wish, as you have always before."

LONDON, March 17.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, will fly to Aintree tomorrow for the Grand National steeplechase.

PROJECT OFF FOR APRIL PRIMARY

No Time to Draw Program Even If Desirable, Barr Says at Public Hearing

The proposed $10,000,000 county relief bond issue will not be submitted to the voters at the primary election April 26, Commissioner C. M. Barr asserted at a public hearing on the proposal this afternoon.

In reply to a question by Mrs. J. O. Miller, of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, Barr said:

"The proposition cannot go before the voters next month because there is not sufficient time to prepare a project program for the unemployed, even should it be deemed desirable to submit the question."

CROWD AT HEARING

Assembled in the commissioners' office were representatives of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, which sponsored both city and county bond relief measures, and representatives of numerous organizations opposed to the county bond plan.

Among those speaking against the county bond proposal were J. R. Brady, secretary of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board; W. M. Jacoby, for the Retail Merchants' Association, and several other business men's organizations; Thomas Liggett and John Dumling.

In a prepared speech Brady said:

"Property owners have not shirked their responsibility to the Welfare Fund, but it goes without saying that many will default in their payments if taxes are increased. They are willing to pay but not from both pockets."

SEES DEFAULT ON TAXES

Fred Pavo, real estate owner of Oakmont, declared:

"If this bond issue goes through the county will have to open a real estate department to take over and operate the property on which the present owners cannot afford to pay taxes."

Senator Frank J. Harris, leader in a movement to have 24,000 families contribute $100 each to support of destitute families, said:

"All we have is hope. How we are going to get along remains to be seen."

LOS ANGELES, March 17.—(AP.)—Experimenting with a metallic tap-dancing platform, designed so sparks would fly from the "hoofers'" taps, James Ward, 23, and Rob O'Connor, 31, who said they were actors, were injured yesterday in an explosion of flashlight powder, ignited by a spark from O'Connor's shoes.

Police Guard Mayor In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—(INS.)—A police squad armed with shotguns today guarded the home of Mayor Angelo J. Rossi, who received an anonymous telephone tip that a death-dealing bomb had been placed under his home.

Policeman Raiding Petters Near Death From Plunge

Patrolman Thomas D. English, attached to a North Side police radio car, was injured seriously early today as a third-story platform on which he had gone to investigate a "roof party" collapsed.

English, who is 36, lives at 1411 Columbus avenue and is the father of four children, was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital unconscious. Physicians there said his back is broken and that there was little chance of his recovering.

Regaining consciousness shortly after noon, the policeman said he had gone to the third floor of the house at 106 East Ohio street following reports that a petting and drinking party was being held on the roof. He stepped out of a window onto the platform to get a better view of the roof, he said, when it gave way and dropped him about 15 feet to a second-floor extension roof.

Anna Thomas, 30, and Winifred Baird, 32, both of 104 East Ohio street, and their friends, George Kruse, 32, of 78 Watsonia boulevard and Roy Murphy, 26, of 1925 Federal street extension, arrested in the case, were held over by Magistrate Ray Schneider after a hearing in North Side Police Court today.

The girls testified they had gone to the roof with the men because they were not allowed to entertain anyone in their room at the East Ohio street address. All denied having seen a policeman.

Flier Gets 7 to 14 Years In Mellon Check Forgery

DETROIT, March 17.—Jay Palmer Harper, 34, aviator, soldier of fortune and maker and distributor of fake travelers' checks, today was sentenced to seven to 14 years in the Detroit House of Correction.

Sentencing of Harper closes a stirring fight waged in Mexican and American courts and a man-hunt backed by Andrew W. Mellon to land Harper in jail.

The travelers' checks Harper was convicted of passing were forgeries on the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh. The bank is reported to have spent $150,000 bringing Harper to justice. He was arrested in Mexico City and fought extradition for 18 months, meanwhile conducting his "business" from an expensively furnished cell.

Palmer virtually selected his own jail. He implied he would harm John B. Gest, star witness against him, if he were sent to Jackson prison, where Gest is serving five to 14 years for passing counterfeit travelers' checks as Harper's aide. Harper told Judge Christopher E. Stein:

"There would be trouble if I went to Jackson where Guest now is. That man perjured himself and there would be a lot of trouble, don't you think, Judge?"

The Judge asked:

"You would slap him on the back?"

"I don't think so."

Harper said he didn't want to go to Marquette prison because it was too cold there. Judge Stein then ordered him to the Housee of Correction, refusing to allow two years Harper has been in Mexico City and Detroit jails to go on the sentence.

HOUSE NEARS SHOWDOWN ON SALES TAX, VOTE TO BE CLOSE

G. O. P. SUPPORT COUNTED ON TO DECIDE ISSUE

Democratic Group Decides On Finish Fight, But Offers No Substitute Proposal

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The House today entered its final day of debate on the $1,096,000,000 tax increase bill with forces favoring and opposing the manufacturers' tax both claiming victory.

The measure will be thrown open to amendment tomorrow with members prepared to offer at least 100 changes before a final vote is reached.

Amendments raising the income tax to wartime levels, exemption of non-alcoholic grape concentrates, increase in the amusement exemption to 50 cents, a boost in the estate tax and heavy taxes on stock exchange transactions were among the amendments to be offered.

Although the sales tax comprises but $595,000,000 of the bill's total, the fight revolved almost entirely around it.

The bulk of the votes for the sales tax it was admitted, will be cast by Republicans, although gains were claimed in the Democratic ranks.

A conference of House Republicans was called today to consider the sales tax provision in the bill following a demand by 39 Republicans. The conference will be held tomorrow night.

The movement was led by Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, who was joined by members of the "Progressive bloc" and some other Republicans.

The action followed a meeting of more than 40 anti-sales tax Democrats last night to plan their fight against this feature of the tax bill. The Democrats, however, rejected proposals to make the question a party issue by seeking a caucus.

The manufacturers' sales tax will be largely absorbed in manufacturing costs and will touch the consumer only in few instances, Representative Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, acting chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, declared today.

Crisp branded as false most of the arguments made against the sales tax feature.

TRIALS IN KLINE 'FIX' DELAYED

After a strenuous week of delving into the alleged plot to tamper with the jury panel of Mayor Charles H. Kline's case, District Attorney Edgar H. Negley, of Butler County, was confined to bed today with an ailment that has temporarily affected his speech.

The trial of the eight defendants on embracery charges that grew out of the grand jury's probe of the alleged plot was postponed yesterday until May 2 by Judge Thomas W. Watson, of Butler. The trials were scheduled to start Monday.

The delay was granted following a defense motion on the grounds that a proper jury could not be selected from the present venire, whose members were alleged to have been approached.

The trial of the seven men and one woman will begin at the same time as the Kline trial, unless the parallel sessions might interfere with each other.

After hiding out for two weeks, Mrs. May Daugherty Scott, wife of a city detective, furnished bond yesterday. She was indicted on embracery and conspiracy charges. Bert Daugherty, her brother, indicted on an embracery charge, also furnished bond. Lee Norris is the only one of the eight indicted who has not been located.

INCOME TAXES FALL SHORT

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—Payments of income tax on March 15 on incomes in 1931 amounted to $12,648,765, as compared with $13,100,362 received on the same date a year ago.

The payments made the total for the month $44,701,384 and for the fiscal year $702,822,726.

For the same number of days in March last year income tax payments amounted to $52,124,904 and for the fiscal year $1,229,555,929.

The receipts this year are not strictly comparable to those received on the first day last year. The deposits are now included in the figures on the day of deposit whereas the collections previously were included on the following day.

The receipts generally credited to the fifteenth of the month were those which have dribbled in ahead of the last minute rush. It is generally the third or fourth day after the final filing date before the funds actually show on the Treasury statement.

SENATE GIVEN BILL TO HELP DEPOSITORS

Glass Measure Would Aid Closed Banks, Limit Funds To Be Loaned in Wall St.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The new compromise banking bill, proposing a $700,000,000 federal corporation to liquidate the assets of closed banks, control branch banking and with powers to ban undue diversion of funds into speculative operations, was introduced in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, a former Secretary of the Treasury.

The provisions for liquidating closed banks was extensive. The permanent corporation would aid member banks of the Federal Reserve System, purchasing their salable assets and turning over funds to the closed banks for payment to depositors. The same treatment would be accorded banks which hereafter close as those already closed.

AID FOR CLOSED BANKS

A special fund of $200,000,000 was set aside for relieving closed state banks. This temporary provision, lasting but two years, could be extended by Congress if conditions warranted further help to non-member banks. The same relief would be afforded depositors of these banks by purchase of negotiable assets and use of the proceeds for payment of deposits in part.

The restrictions laid down against member banks of the Federal Reserve System to prevent undue diversion of funds into speculative channels, were rather drastic.

CURB STOCK LOANS

The total loans for speculative purposes at any one time, would be limited to 10 per cent of the bank's outstanding capital stock and surplus.

The bank also would be forced to secure speculative loans to its affiliates by stocks and bonds having an "ascertained market value at the time of making the loan of at least 20 per centum more than the amount of such loan." Such loans could be secured, too, by paper eligible for investment by savings banks in the state in which the bank making the loan is located.

A new restriction also was placed on Federal Reserve credits. The bill specifically limited credit from the board to member banks to the purposes of commerce, industry and agriculture. It would specifically forbid credit extension for investment or trading in stocks other than federal obligations. This would forbid rediscount of any loans for speculative purposes.

JUNGLE STORY STILL DOUBTED

LONDON, March 17.—(INS.)—"Stronger corroborative evidence" is needed before all doubt can be removed that Col. P. H. Fawcett, British explorer lost seven years ago in the Brazilian jungles, is still alive.

This was the statement today of Sir Ralph Paget, formerly British ambassador to Brazil. Stephen Rappin, the Brazilian trapper, who claimed to have seen Fawcett alive in the interior of Matto Grosso last October, said that Col. Fawcett requested that word of his plight be transmitted to Sir Ralph and to the British consul at Sao Paolo, Brazil.

SAO PAOLO, Brazil, March 17.—(INS.)—Gen. Rondon, known as the "Brazilian Daniel Boone," who has made numerous expeditions into the jungels of Brazil, expressed skepticism today over the claim of Stephen Rappin that he saw Col. P. H. Fawcett alive and well in the interior of Matto Grosso.

TURFMAN DREW FACES DIVORCE

Mrs. Marie E. Drew, 33, of Fifth avenue, testified today in her divorce suit against Raymond J. Drew, 40, that he left home to attend horse races four years ago and never returned to the house.

Drew is employed in the deed registry office of the county and is said to be the owner of a stable of racing horses. He lives at 1306 Chateau street.

According to Mrs. Drew, her husband telephoned her that "he was not coming back." She had been working as a clerk for an oil company but was laid off and had to turn her two sons over to her husband, she said.

The Drews were married July 17, 1915, and separated July 7, 1928. The suit is not contested.

BLAST WRECKS BOAT, 7 SAVED

PHOEBUS, Va., March 17.—(AP.)—The destruction of the trawler Ruth Mildred by an explosion and fire was reported today by Capt. Niles Soderberg, who arrived here with six other members of the crew picked up in a lifeboat off Cape Henry.

The vessel burned to the water's edge and sank, he said.

The explosion occurred about 6 p. m., yesterday, when the trawler was about 40 miles east of Cape Henry. The cause is unknown, Capt. Soderberg told the owners.

The men launched a boat and quickly pulled away from the burning wreck which was soon aflame from stem to stern. While they watched, the trawler Ariel came along and took them aboard.

The loss was estimated by the Old Point Fish Company, owners of the vessel, at $35,000.

HOSPITAL HEAD HONORED HERE

The Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital was honored by the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania yesterday in the selection of Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, superintendent, as president for 1933 at the eleventh annual conference in William Penn Hotel. Miss Turnbull will succeed John M. Smith, director of Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, who will be installed as president this afternoon.

Other officers elected were Robert Froberger, assistant superintendent, Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, and Dr. Donald C. Smelzer, medical director, Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia, vice presidents; Melvin L. Sutley, superintendent, Delaware County Hospital; Drexel Hill and M. H. Eichenlaub, superintendent of Western Pennsylvania Hospital, trustees, and E. E. Matthews, superintendent of Wilkes-Barre General Hospital, Wilkes-Barre, treasurer.

Lack of funds compelled Gov. Pinchot to veto legislation passed by the special session of the State Legislature to give emergency appropriations to hospitals, he wired members of the association last night. The message was read by Mrs. Alice F. Liveright, Secretary of Welfare.

CHICAGO, March 17.—(INS.)—An attempted robbery of the Papanek-Kovac State Bank was frustrated here when Stefan Kovac, cashier, fell on the alarm button when he was ordered to lie on the floor by the two bandits.

The robbers could not hear the alarm, but became suspicious and fled in an automobile. They were armed with revolvers and a sawed off shotgun.

ANTI-DRY BOLT IN OHIO STIRS LEADERS

Majority of Republican Delegation for Change; White Backs Referendum

CLEVELAND, March 17.—(AP.)—Two surprising anti-prohibition developments in Ohio, with possibly far-reaching reverberations, entered the forefront of national politics today.

In Cleveland, Maurice Maschke, national Republican committeeman, disclosed that for the first time since prohibition, a majority of Ohio's delegation to the Republican National Convention will be anti-dry.

WHITE FOR REFERENDUM

At Columbus, the Democratic gov. George White, who was listed by the Anti-Saloon League as a friend of prohibition when elected 10 years ago, was on record today as favoring a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment.

Gov. White, the state's "favorite son" for the Democratic presidential nomination, made his referendum declaration for the first time at a regional conference of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at Columbus last night.

Asserting his belief that prohibition supporters had erred in opposing a popular vote, the Governor startled the dry assemblage with the statement that he favored resubmission if for no other reason than to refute claims that the liquor laws were forced through during the World War when thousands of citizens were overseas.

Semi-suppressed "nays" greeted the remarks of the gray-haired chief executive who started his career as a gold-digger in the Klondike, but he continued:

"It is the right of my record to at least make these suggestions for your careful consideration."

BLOW TO FESS

The status of Ohio's delegates to the Republican National Convention, as revealed by Maschke, was interpreted by several leaders of that party as providing additional impetus for a serious fight for a referendum plank in the party's next platform.

It also was seen as a possibly embarrassing situation for the Ohio delegation, which under ordinary circumstances would be expected to name Senator Simeon D. Fess as the state's one member of the convention resolutions committee.

Fess, chairman of the Republican National Committee, is an outstanding dry, however, and if prohibition is made a big issue at the convention, several Ohio leaders of the party said the Buckeye delegation probably would put him up for someone with more liberal views.

'5 AND 10' LAW HIT

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP.)—A bill to substantially repeal the Jones "five and ten" prohibition law has been introduced by Representative Britten (Rep.), Illinois, who predicted it would pass if the judiciary committee permits it to come to the House.

The five-year penalty would be reduced to six months except in the case of known large scale or habitual violators of the prohibition laws, while the maximum fine would be cut from $10,000 to $500.

The bill is aimed, Britten said, at preventing heavy sentences "by intolerant or bigoted judges" for minor prohibition violations. He contended the Jones law is now discredited.

'Chicago's Genial Host' Kills Sel

CHICAGO, March 17.—(INS.)—Harry McKelvey, known along this city's white way as "Chicago's genial host," was dead by his own hand today. He walked into an alley last night and there sent a .45 caliber bullet crashing through his head.

Illness and financial reverses caused the suicide, according to his widow. For many years McKelvey operated night clubs here.

Carol Reported Seeking Truce With Ex-Wife

FLORENCE, Italy, March 17.—(AP.)—King Carol, of Rumania, was reported here today to be trying to effect a reconciliation with his divorced former wife, Princess Helen, through a secret emissary, Gen. Candesco.

The general left last night after spending two days here. His mission was understood to have been ostensibly to arrange a money allowance for the former queen, who recently arranged to buy a $60,000 villa, but was obliged to cancel the arrangement when the Rumanian Parliament rejected an appropriation proposed by King Carol.

From Paris Gen. Candesco recently was reported as trying to effect a reconciliation between Coral and his younger brother, Prince Nicholas, who was exiled from Rumania after the latter refused to accede to an annulment of his marriage with Mme. Jana Lucia Deleti, a commoner.

These efforts were construed by courtiers as part of a plan to strengthen Carol's position by re-establishing the good relations of the entire royal family.

PLAN FOR UNITY MARKS ST. PATRICK FETE IN IRELAND

1500TH YEAR OF LANDING CELEBRATED

De Valera Outlines Program For North-South Peace And End of British Tribute

By MICHAEL ROONEY

DUBLIN, March 17.—(AP.)—The wearing of the green had a double significance in Erin today: It was the 1500th anniversary of St. Patrick's landing and it brought a new plan for union of the North and South of Ireland.

Eamon De Valera, new president of the Free State, announced last night, on the eve of the St. Patrick's Day Celebrations, a four-point program for his administration, one point of which was an eventful merger of the Free State and Ulster governments, age-old division of Irish affairs.

Other points were abolition of the oath of allegiance to King George and of the more than $10,000,000 a year in land annuities paid to the British government, as well as suspension of the military courts set up by the Cosgrave regime to try Irishmen for offenses against the government.

PLAN GIANT STATUE

The center of the day's ceremonies in honor of St. Patrick today was at Saul, in County Down, where a giant statue of the Saint is to be erected immediately on the Mountain of Slieve Willin, 400 feet above the shore where he landed in 432 A. D. to begin his missionary work.

There is also to be a great altar on the site which commands a magnificent view of the Irish Sea and the Mourne Mountains. The statue will be visible for many miles, looking toward memories of Slieve Donard on the south, Strangford Lough and even far-away Slemish in County Antrim, on the north.

On an adjoining hill nearer Downpatrick St. Patrick erected his first church in Ireland, called Sabhall-Patraic, and made his first convert in the person of Dichu, chief of the locality.

St. Patrick always was deeply attached to Saul. He died there and after obsequies of 12 days his body was interred two miles away at Downpatrick.

BROADCAST TO AMERICA

At St. Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh, the program today included celebration of a pontifical mass by his eminence, Cardinal Macrorory. The Belfast British Broadcasting Station broadcast the ceremony, a part of which was rebroadcast to America.

The ancient custom of "Drowning the Shamrock" was restricted today to homes only. The public houses were closed again this year as they have been on St. Patrick's Day for many years.

Pope Pius XI bestowed the apostolic blessing on the Irish people in a message to President De Valera, signed by the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Pacelli. The message was in reply to one from De Valera expressing the hope that cordial relations between Ireland and the Vatican might continue. The Pope, Cardinal Pacelli said, was extremely pleased to receive President De Valera's message.

De Valera Unity Plan Brings Ulster Scorn

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 17.—(AP.)—Ulster newspapers expressed scorn today for the outline of policies announced by President Eamonn De Valera, of the Irish Free State, in which De Valera included a plan for bringing about a union of North and South Ireland. The Northern Whig said:

"No one except De Valera believes that the moment the oath (of allegiance) is abolished members of the Irish Republican Army will voluntarily disband, leaving the Fianna Fail government to the placid pursuit of a peaceful evolution."

The Belfast News Letter said De Valera "expects a series of miracles to occur" with the British government not only acquiescing in the Free State's retention of the land annuity payments, but disgorging £30,000,000 already paid, while "the political border which separates Ulster from the Free State is to disappear at the waving of some mysterious wand."

50,000 Shamrocks For Chicago's Fete

CHICAGO, March 17.—(AP.)—Fifty thousand shamrocks served to remind Chicago today was St. Patrick's day.

They were imported and distributed by the united Celtic-American societies of Chicago which are sponsoring a program of Irish dances, folk songs and speeches at an amusement park and expecting 15,000 to attend.

HITLER 'PLOT' PAPERS SEIZED

BERLIN, March 17.—(INS.)—Documentary evidence that Adolf Hitler's brown-shirted National Socialist hordes, several hundred thousand strong, planned a "march on Berlin" was seized today in a series of raids on Nazi (Fascist) headquarters in Berlin and Munich.

Carl Severing, Prussian minister of the interior, announced that the raids were made to forestall an attempt by the Hitlerites to seize power in Germany by force.

Several hundred thousand of Hitler's "storm troops," Severing said, had been outfitted with rifles, ammunition and first aid kits. The original plan, according to the minister, was to seize police power if Hitler was elected President in the elections last Sunday, and thus head off Republican resistance to the brown shirt leader.

National Socialist spokesmen denounced the raids, which totaled in the neighborhood of 300. A protest was lodged with Minister of Defense Gen. Wilhelm Groener, and a Nazi spokesman said an appeal would be taken to the Supreme Court.

ALL CLUES FAIL IN HUNT FOR STUDENTS

Harvard Youths Missing For Seven Weeks; Search Turns to Vanished Coupe

BOSTON, March 17.—(AP.)—Nearly seven weeks ago, two young men, Floyd J. Stewart and Nathaniel E. Jones, students in good standing at the Harvard school of business administration, disappeared from their regular lodgings in Cambridge.

Since 4:50 a. m., January 31, not a single real clue has been discovered to account for their disappearance or indicate where they went. An intense police search has failed to give even a hint of their fate.

Hope of finding them now hinges on the discovery of Jones' light convertible coupe, but that vanished with the young men.

The two young men are members of families of wealth and position. Stewart's father is James Josiah Stewart, of Garden City, Kan., high official of a utilities holding company and prominent in banking circles. Jones' father is Nathaniel R. Jones, president of a widely-known firm of Boston silk merchants, who makes his home in Billerica, Mass.

PASSED EXAMS

Stewart and Jones were both 23, considered reliable, level-headed and conservative by those who knew them.

Mid-year examinations had just been concluded. The young men had passed them and were excused from the usual study requirements during the succeeding week. They had been out with friends on the night before their disappearance, but apparently had gone to their separate rooms in the dormitories. Shortly before 5 a. m., Jones was reported to have called Stewart from bed. Stewart was said to have slipped outer clothing over his pajamas and left with his friend. That was the last seen of them. It was believed the pair had less than $40 between them.

The quest at first was pressed vigorously, but, as days lengthened into a week, college authorities as well as the families became alarmed.

MONTREAL CLUE

The aid of police throughout the country and in Havana and Montreal was enlisted. Everything that appeared to be a clue was run to earth without result. One report from the Montreal police appeared to be a possible explanation of some of the men's movements. A waiter in a Montreal cafe said he served two young men answering Jones' and Stewart's descriptions a few days after they disappeared. A pawnbroker said a man resembling Jones had pawned a raccoon coat in Montreal at about the same time. But nothing ever came of this clue.

A half hundred Boston society girls who knew the men were questioned. An actress, 200 college mates, and others who knew them, were helpless to aid. Today the police were as lacking in tangible information as the week after they disappeared.

MRS. MOONEY DEFIES ILLNESS

CLEVELAND, March 17.—(AP.)—Despite a heart attack, Mrs. Mary Mooney, 54-year-old mother of California's famous prisoner, Tom Mooney, planned to continue her speaking tour today.

Before a crowd of 2,000 persons last night, Mrs. Mooney arose to speak in behalf of freedom for her son, serving a life term for alleged participation in the preparedness day bombing at San Francisco in 1916. But before she could utter a word, a heart attack caused her to give up.

Friends assisted her to a chair, and her address was read by I. O. Ford, Communist candidate for mayor who was defeated in the last primary.

Previous heart attacks forced Mrs. Mooney to cancel two radio speeches Tuesday.

MRS. MOONEY TEAR GAS ROUTS MINE STRIKERS

ATHENS, O., March 17.—(AP.)—Gas bombs were used today to quell a howling crowd of 800 striking miners who sought to storm the Black Diamond Coal Company's mine at Lathrop, near here.

The miners rallied to object to yesterday's reopening of the mine when 60 diggers went to work against protests of 7,000 striking miners.

Sheriff Wayne Wingett, County Prosecutor John Bolin and three deputies confronted the men marching toward the mine at a bridge.

When remonstrances yelled across the bridge failed to halt the marchers, the officers threw gas bombs. The strikers fell back. The officers wore gas masks.

Hose Fixtures Fail, $15,000 Homes Burn

BEAVERDALE, Pa., March 17.—The homes of Hiram Rowland and Edward Harvey and a small garage were leveled by fire here, with a loss estimated at $15,000. The Beaverdale Volunteer Fire Company, organized a month ago, responded to an alarm and found that its new hose connections would not fit the fire hydrants. The South Fork company was then called and brought the fire under control.

GIBBONS BOUND HOME AS WAR FOLDS UP

Kidnaping of Lindy's Child Enrages All Doughboys, Headline Hunter Declares

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Famous War Correspondent and Headline Hunter of the Radio.

(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

SHANGHAI, March 17.—Hello, everybody!

This is the first real yip you've heard out of me since they grabbed the baby.

In the face of such an emotional jolt, this Asiatic fracas just naturally folded up like an empty wallet.

The Yank doughboys and leathernecks out here who'd been sounding off hourly about what we'd do if the Japanese did this and what might happen if the Chinese did so-and-so—why, dog-gone it, all they've been talking about since the kidnaping is what they'd like to do to the low-down kidnaper who grabbed Lindy's kid.

"Gee, how tough this is on little Anne," they're saying, and wondering whether the kid's getting the right kind of chow and what ought to happen to those so and sos if anything real bad happens to the nipper.

WAR IN BACKGROUND

Everybody in Shanghai says that all these generals and admirals just couldn't bear seeing their victories and strategic retreats cut down to slug heads and buried in the want ads, so they just called off the war until Charlie, Junior, gets that tousled head of his back on Anne's arm.

I sure hope it is soon.

Along with the dawn of this St. Patrick's day came cable orders for my return home and I can't tell you how much that word means. I spent Thanksgiving in mid-Pacific, Christmas in a rat-infested dump in Yinkow and New Year's eve in Koupangtze, all in Manchuria, and here's ould St. Patrick's day in Shanghai.

I'm hoping to grab the big Empress of Japan liner early tomorrow morning and float down the Whangpoo River with the ebb tide past the ruins of the Woosung forts and then up the China Sea to put into Kobe and Yokohama in Japan.

And then on as fast as I can beat it to Honolulu and transfer ship there to the Dollar liner President Coolidge, arriving in San Francisco April 5.

HAPPY TO RETURN

I'll be mighty glad to get there. For this once I am a little sick of China and fed up on Japan—I want to see them again and I feel certain I will—it's only a question of how soon, because things blow up in this section of the world at a minute's notice.

Some of the Marines are pulling out tonight on the Chaumont, bound back for Manila where I had a swell invitation to spend a week with Teddy, the new G. G. (Theodore Roosevelt, Governor General of the Philippines), but that trip is shot until next time. A mighty important subject, those Philippines of ours, by the way.

And some of the Argyll Highlanders pulled out today with a big parade. Believe me, they are a mighty swanky looking outfit when they parade down Nanking road with their kilts and bare knees and pith helmets.

I have turned over what remains of the war to my old pal of the Mexican border days, Gen. McCoy, who is out here investigating peace if he can find it.

Karl von Weigand is here on the job studying Chinese, and Mary Brush Williams and Dixon Hoste are here also, so I guess I won't be missed.

A big flock of mail just reached me today, and O boy! how I am going to luxuriate in my old bunk on board ship and rest and eat up what the folks back home have written.

Yes, sir! I'm a home body homeward bound and happy. See you later.

MANCHU REBELS SEIZE CITY

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 17. — (AP.) — A powerful Chinese insurgent force under a Manchurian leader named Tsing-hai and equipped with artillery attacked and captured Fu-Yu, a city of 80,000 people, 100 miles southwest of Harbin, last night. It was reported here today.

TOKIO, March 17.—(AP.)—The brand new dictatorial government of the dapper young Pu-Yi, heir to the ancient Manchu emperors, was reported tottering in Manchuria by Japanese press dispatches today, over the question of Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, who has been named its war minister.

Revolts, which have occurred at Tahelo and Manchuli, in Gen Ma's province of Heilungkiang, have caused the former defender of Tsitsihar to rush home from the new dictatorial court at Changchun, reports to the Rengo News Agency said, breaking away in the midst of the triumphant ceremonies surrounding the Pu-Yi inauguration.

Several groups of Chinese troops in Heilungkiang refused to celebrate the establishment of the Pu-Yi government and rose up against Gen. Ma, declining to transfer their allegiance.

Shanghai Defenders Rewarded With Socks

SHANGHAI, March 17.—(INS.)—Shanghai expressed its gratitude to the defenders of the International Settlement today with silk socks.

ILLNESS HALTS ACTIVITY OF CORBETT

'Gentleman Jim' Stricken by Heart, Gland Ailments; Shows Old Fighting Spirit

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 17.—James J. "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world and one of the most popular personalities in the field of sports is ill—quite ill—at his home in Bayside, Long Island.

Corbett, who is 65, is suffering from thyroid gland trouble, coupled with an affected heart.

Up to about two months ago he was in the best of health and surprisingly young looking and his friends marveled at the zest and buoyancy that was his. He "didn't look a day over 40," they were wont to tell him.

ACTIVITY BANNED

But now "Gentleman Jim," conquerer of the mighty John L. Sullivan and exponent of the art of boxing as differentiated from slugging, is showing the effects of time. He is a sick man.

The usually optimistic Corbett said to International News Service today:

"That heart of mine and my thyroid gland are causing me no end of trouble.

"The arteries around the heart are hardening and my doctors will not permit me to exert myself in any way. They forbid me to walk upstairs—a hardship for a man of my active inclinations—and have ordered plenty of rest and quiet."

IMPROVES SLOWLY

Corbett, with characteristic fighting spirit, expects that his condition will improve, albeit perhaps slowly. He said:

"I'm coming along all right, but very, very slowly. I have to live on one floor now, and even when I get into the car to go to the doctor I have help to get down the walk."

News of Corbett's illness was not generally known along Broadway's Rialto, where he was well-known. In recent years Corbett has been identified with the stage as an actor—and a good one, too. It was only when Mrs. Corbett wrote to John G. Kitchin, Jr., a close friend of "Gentleman Jim" in San Francisco, that it became known how serious is her husband's condition.

KIN TESTIFIES AGAINST INDIAN

GLOBE, Ariz., March 17.—(INS.)—Presenting damaging testimony, the government today neared the close of its case against Goine (Mac) Seymour, 21-year-old Apache Indian on trial for the murder of Miss Henrietta Schmerler, 25, Columbia University co-ed, last July 18.

Robert Gatewood, a brother-in-law of Seymour, testified Seymour, last July 19 told him:

"I killed a white woman after being friendly with her. She threatened to tell on me and have me sent far away. I had to kill her and I will kill you, too, if you [illegible] anything about it."

Gatewood and Seymour scowled menacingly at one another as Gatewood gave his sensational testimony.

Speaker Here Backs Japanese Invasion

Japan's occupation of Manchuria was defended by Adachi Kinnosuke, Japanese-American author, lecturer and journalist, at a dinner of the Carnegie Tech Y. M. & W. C. A. in Carnegie Inn last night.

He said Tokio's action was to protect and develop agriculture in Manchuria to prevent starvation among 67,000,000 Japanese. He attributed hostilities to the effort of his country to block the Chinese boycott, which he described as "murderous and politically operated."

Newlywed Prince Lennart To Be Aided by King

NICE, France, March 17.—(AP.)—King Gustav, of Sweden, emerged as a possible mediator between his son, Prince Wilhelm, and his grandson, Prince Lennart, who recently surrendered royal prerogatives in order to marry Miss Karin Nissvandt, a commoner.

It was reliably learned that the King, who has purchased an expensive gift of jewelry for the bride, hopes to effect a reconciliation. Prince Lennart is the son of Prince Wilhelm.

Lennart and his bride are expected to arrive here Easter Monday to visit the King. Prince Wilhelm already is on the Riviera and when his son and the commoner were married in London, March 11, he remarked:

"I will have nothing to do with that wedding."

King Gustav has kept in close touch with Stockholm during the last few days, thinking he might have to return because of the situation created by the suicid of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king. After a telephone talk with Stockholm yesterday he decided definitely to remain here.

WASHINGTON, March 17—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's victory in the North Dakota primary, coming on top an earlier victory in New Hampshire last week, elated his followers in Congress today. But among the anti-Roosevelt Democrats there was a disposition to minimize the effect of winning these small states and to await the more important tests that are coming in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

In North Dakota as in New Hampshire the state Democratic organization was solidly behind Roosevelt. The four-handed Democratic leaders in these states climbed aboard the Roosevelt "band wagon" weeks ago when it appeared the only one in sight. Having got aboard they found it inexpedient to get off.

MURRAY HOPES HIT

The most important result of the North Dakota primary, as viewed by most Democrats here, is the elimination of Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma, as a serious contender for the Democratic presidential nomination. Murray made his first bid for support outside his own Oklahoma by stumping North Dakota. He was defeated by a 2-to-1 margin.

The size of the Democratic vote in North Dakota both surprised and pleased Democratic leaders. Ordinarily only a handful of Democrats turn out in a Democratic primary in the state. Yet returns, thus far incomplete, show upwards of 60,000 votes in the Roosevelt-Murray contest of Tuesday. The greatest Democratic vote in North Dakota's history turned out in 1928, when Al Smith polled 106,000 to lose the state by 25,000 to Herbert Hoover.

Various interpretations were placed on the size of the Democratic vote.

NYE SEES HOOVER BLOW

To Senator Nye, a Republican, the Democratic showing spelled "a rebuke to President Hoover." He declared the vote on Tuesday constituted notice to the administration that it should cease "rushing relief to the international bankers" and turn its attention to the distress in the agricultural regions.

Senator Dill (Dem.) of Washington, one of the most fervent Roosevelt adherents in the Senate, declared the North Dakota result "has stopped the 'stop Roosevelt' movement."

The noncommittal Democrats, however, persisted in their attitude of "wait and see." The Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries are coming along next month and the delegates involved in these two states 112 really matter. In both states Gov. Roosevelt will be opposed by Al Smith. The leaders are inclined to view these two primaries as the acid test of Roosevelt's popular strength.

Mayor Curley Spurs Roosevelt Workers

BOSTON, March 17—(AP)—Mayor James M. Curley's organization in support of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt of New York took the political battlefield today against the Smith-pledged ticket headed by Massachusetts' governor and United States Senators.

The more than 80 candidates for delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention on the Roosevelt-pledged ticket, received their campaign orders from Mayor Curley at an organization dinner last night and were cautioned to make a fight that "will leave no scars for Gov. Roosevelt to carry into the November campaign."

Salesman Robbed At Thornburg Bridge

While en route to his home in Toronto, O., late last night, E. C. McManus, a salesman, was held up and robbed of $90, a watch and a three-carat diamond ring at the west end of the Thornburg bridge. McManus told Crafton police he stopped at the end of the bridge because he was having trouble with his car. Three men drew up alongside, alighted from their car and took his money and jewelry.

With today's two questions, the airplane trip contest being sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with the National Aircraft Exposition and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, which has been exciting the imaginations of every air-minded boy in Pittsburgh for the past two weeks, will close.

Boys who aspire to the 600-mile round trip by plane to Detroit to attend the National Aircraft Exposition, which opens in Detroit April 2 have until midnight March 23 to answer the 24 questions which have been running two each day in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and to write a 100-word letter telling from their own observation the advantages of air mail and air travel. All answers and letters must be in the office of the Aviation Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, before midnight, March 23.

JUDGES NAMED

Judges for the contest are: Fred W. Boland, director of trade training, Pittsburgh Public Schools; Carl E. Voelter, manager of the Curtis-Wright Airport, Pittsburgh; and Allen H. Blaisdell, associate professor of Mechanical Engineering and in charge of Aeronautical Engineering at Carnegie Tech.

He will be taken on a 60-mile airplane tour from the Detroit City Airport, stopping at the Ford, Wayne County, Grosse Ile and Walker airports en route, and on an automobile tour of the city, stopping at the Ford automobile plant.

FINAL QUESTIONS

Today's final two questions are:

24. How many passengers were carried by American air transport lines, both foreign and domestic, in the year 1931?

FLYING SCHEDULE

SLANG PLEASES HAUPTMANN

NEW YORK, March 17—(AP)—Gerhart Hauptmann, Germany's famous dramatist, is on his way home treasuring an American slang phrase. It's "Be yourself."

Sailing last night after a visit, he said he was impressed with the "easy naturalness" of Americans and that the slang phrase "seems a fair index of your attitude." He said:

"In Germany there is a great gulf between formal-mannered people and individualists. Individualism there expresses itself in extremes like nudism. Here it is a pleasant and normal mean between these two extremes."

He praised Eugene O'Neill as "The greatest dramatic genius America has yet produced."

The dinner is being arranged by the National Capital Presbyterian Commission of the church's general assembly. Forty of the 160 Presbyterian churches dating back to pre-revolutionary days, already have accepted invitations to be represented.

Plows Push Road Through Snow to Save Ill Boy

MEADVILLE, Pa., March 17—(AP)—How an ambulance crew and highway workers battled through snowdrifts to reach a youth critically ill, was described in Meadville Hospital.

William Hitts, 16, farmhand, lay ill of pneumonia. Last week's blizzard covered the countryside with drifts that blocked traffic on all but the main roads. The lad grew weaker. The ambulance was called, but the heavy machine stopped dead in the drifts.

Highway workers were summoned and with a snowplow they cut a path for the hospital car. Finally the farmhouse was reached and within a few minutes Hitts was on his way to the hospital. He's recovering.

"I am convinced that Henry Ellenbogen is the leading independent candidate for Congress in this district and that he can be elected if the independents are not divided against him. That, in short, is why I am withdrawing."

POLICE UNITY IN LINDY BABY HUNT URGED

Chief Scores Flier's Plea To Gangsters for Aid; Many More Clues Fail

terious visit to the Lindbergh home last night of a woman about 65 years old who was driven by a chauffeur. She was said to have telephoned Col. Lindbergh that she had very valuable information for his ears alone.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, at their Hopewell, N. J., home from which their young son was stolen March 1, maintained their seclusion today. They were reported to have become reconciled to a watchful waiting policy in the hope the kidnapers would communicate with them with the subsidence of the furore the abduction aroused throughout the nation.

However, Herbert C. Wildey, Morristown Chief of Police asked for concerted police action in the kidnap hunt. In a letter to members of the New Jersey State Association of Police Chiefs, of which he is president, he said:

"The time to abandon the watchful waiting attitude in the Lindbergh kidnaping case has arrived.

SCORES GANG AID

"If the citizens of this nation are depending on denizens of the underworld to receive loved ones who have been ruthlessly taken from their homes, it is time the fact be made known so that state and municipal governments may dispense with their police departments and dicker with the law-breakers at so much a case, thereby saving the taxpayers considerable money.

"The blot in the fair name of New Jersey can only be removed by the speedy and safe return of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr."

He added the solving of "this terrible outrage against society in general remains as it was two weeks ago."

Numerous discouragements encountered by the official investigators were illustrated in Schwarzkopf's previous bulletin detailing activities in the search for the baby.

The bulletin follows:

"Betty Gow is still in the Lindbergh house and has been in the house continuously. She has never been taken to Newark, Jersey City or any place else.

MESSAGES TRACED

"Telephone message received from Newark said a Mrs. Citranian, 2305 Riverside avenue, Newark, N. J., was in possession of valuable information that would lead to present whereabouts of Lindbergh baby. Investigators were sent there and discovered that this was a vacant lot.

"Another phone call was received later which was checked and members of the Newark police picked up a Mr. Sherer. Mr. Sherer on being questioned stated that his mother had a dream as to where the baby was and this man is being held by Newark police. This is just another of the many bits of information we are constantly receiving.

"Annette Copin, the nurse employed by the Lindberghs between the times of Marie Cummings and Betty Gow, has been located and questioned and could add nothing to assist in the investigation.

"The anonymous message received from Atlantic City was investigated and found to be without foundation."

AGENTS AT WORK

Private envoys of the Lindberghs appeared to have made no more progress than official investigators in picking up the trail of kidnapers.

Morris Rosner, "Salvy" Spitale and Irving Bitz, who undertook the task of making contact with members of the underworld, if not the kidnapers themselves, if possible, in the efforts to recover the child, carried on whatever work they did today in secret.

Bound, Gagged

Ad in Paper Again, Lindy Clue Hinted

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—Another advertisement of the "Jafsie" series, which some persons have speculated might have some connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and arrangements for the child's return for ransom, appeared in a morning paper today. The advertisement, included in the classification of "public notices," read:

"I accept. Money is ready. You know they won't let me deliver without getting the package. Let's make it some sort of c. o. d. transaction. Come. You know you can trust Jafsie."

Lindbergh Baby Sought in Cuba

HAVANA, March 17.—(INS)—Rumors that the Lindbergh baby had been brought to Cuba had been thoroughly investigated by Havana police and army authorities today after receiving a tip from New Jersey police.

A report that one of Al Capone's yachts had been in Havana waters recently added to the excitement created, but police today declared they had followed up every possibility and concluded the rumors were baseless.

Waterbury Combed For Lindy Suspects

WATERBURY, Conn., March 17.—(AP)—Waterbury detectives disclosed today that three members of the New York bombing squad who said they were trailing three suspects in the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby visited several rooming houses here last night.

Officials quoted the New York detectives as saying they were seeking two men, a woman and a child from New Jersey who had stopped at Bridgeport Monday.

SEEK MERCHANT IN GUN SALE

Arrest of a downtown storekeeper was ordered today by Magistrate T. D. Jones for selling firearms to Earl Baille, 17, of 23 Diamond square, South Side, after it was testified shots fired from the south side of the Monongahela River had slightly wounded Frank Rzesutko, 3147 Bates street, while at work in the American Reduction Company plant, Forbes and Brady streets.

It was testified Baille purchased a rifle and 50 rounds of ammunition for $2.98 and invited Walter Findish, 17, 22½ South Thirteenth street, and Steve Terleski, 18, 39 South Twentieth street, to indulge in target practice. The three, held over for further hearing at Central Police Court, said they had been shooting at wood floating down the river. Baille was ordered to point out the store of purchase.

Baby Born on Train, Held Up for Doctor

KANSAS CITY, March 17.—(AP)—A passenger without a ticket rode a transcontinental Santa Fe passenger train into Kansas City without a word of objection from railroad authorities.

She was the seven-pound daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Stucke, of Granite City, Ill., born as the train pounded the rails from Waynoka, Okla., to Kansas City last night. The train had waited 20 minutes at Waynoka for a physician. He left at Alva, Okla., his task completed.

WOMAN KILLED BY FALL

Mrs. Nellie McCue, 49, a widow, of 152 Merrimac street, Mt. Washington, died in her home early today from a fractured skull suffered when she fell from a second-story porch in the rear of her home last night. She was reported to have lost her balance and fallen over the railing into the yard.

Mrs. Eleanor Dee, 28, of 3923 Mintwood street, was in St. Francis Hospital today suffering injuries caused by a fall from the second floor of her home while cleaning windows late yesterday. Mrs. Dee lost her balance and fell to a brick walk. She suffered a fractured left arm and a probable fracture of the pelvis.

Oakland Board Votes Against Tube Deal

Resolutions opposing the acquisition of the Wabash Tunnel by the county have been adopted by members of the Oakland Board of Trade and copies forwarded to the County Commissioners. COLDS

RUB Musterole well into your chest and throat—almost instantly you feel easier. Repeat the Musterole-rub once an hour for five hours . . . what a glorious relief!

Those good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor—are mixed with other valuable ingredients in Musterole to make it what doctors call a "counter-irritant" because it gets action and is not just a salve.

It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

LISTENING IN—With the Radio Editor

AS VICTOR HERBERT has expressed it in song, "It's a Great Day Today for the Irish."

From early morning until late tonight, radio celebrates St. Patrick's Day on an elaborate scale, unprecedented in March 17 history. Nearly every musical program offers lilting Irish melodies, while four international broadcasts carry the spirit of the Emerald Isle across the ocean. Following the personal message to America from Eamon de Valera, newly-elected president of the executive council of the Irish Free State, at 12:15 p. m. on WJAS, come a Dublin concert on the same station at 2:30 by outstanding Irish musicians, including Anrie Fagin, harpist; Patrick Kirwan, tenor; Seamus Clandillon, baritone, and Seamus MacAonghusa, piper. From Belfast, at 3:43, WCAE offers the famous Symphony Orchestra under the direction of E. Godfrey Brown. Tonight, Walter Winchell sends his "magic carpet" sailing to Dublin town for dance music by the Siasma Gael Band.

Mr. Winchell

"O. K., Dublin!"

Belle Baker and Jack Denny are arranging a fast one for Sund.; after next. Their program will be presented from a Baltimore and Ohio train traveling at least a mile a minute. It is the first regular, complete program ever attempted from a temporary studio aboard a train. Short-wave equipment will link the train with the Columbia network.

Both NBC and CBS are getting ready for the Republican national convention in Chicago next June. It will be the third broadcast of a G. O. P. gathering. The first, in 1924, brought Graham McNamee to the fore.

And speaking of future events, NBC announces it intends to broadcast a description of the total eclipse of the sun on August 31 from an observation post at Norway, Me.

Program Pointers

THE FOUR MULLINS SISTERS, of the musical comedy stage, harmonize on Rudy Vallee's program on WCAE at 8 o'clock tonight. Rudy sings from Philadelphia, where he is on tour with George White's "Scandals." Ray Perkins and his faithful "Clarence" also are featured.

There's a touch of the Blarney Stone in Frank Crumit's offerings on KDKA at 9, while Julia Sanderson gives her version of "The Girl with the Bit of a Brogue."

Kate Smith, on WJAS at 8:30, dedicates her "Star Memory" song to Chauncey Olcott, singing "My Wild Irish Rose," which he introduced. Olcott, now living abroad, will listen to Kate's rendition of his popular ballad through a specially-installed short-wave set.

"Murder in the Wax Works," a story involving the notorious Dr. Moriarity, as great a criminal as Sherlock Holmes was a detective, is unfolded by Dr. Watson on WCAE at 9:30.

Description and summaries of the National Indoor Tennis championships are offered by Ted Husing over WJAS at 5:15.

WWSW transmits the hockey game between the Yellow Jackets and the Buffalo International Hockey League team at 8:20 from Duquesne Garden.

Countess Olga Albani, making her second appearance in the spot left vacant by Lanny Ross, sings Friml and Herbert melodies at 9:30 on KDKA.

A two-piano novelty, "Busy Fingers," by Schutt and Lieberfeld, is interspersed with "A Bouquet of Irish Songs" by the Dance Gypsies on KDKA at 10.

Aden K. Lowther, tenor, offers an Irish program on KQV at 8:45. Aces of the Air, on the same station at 8, bring Ben Brad, tenor, and the Candy Club Orchestra, of Chicago, in an encore program.

Fan Fare

JACQUELINE LOGAN, interviewed by Margaret Santry on WJAS at 8 tonight, is the former "Follies" and film star . . . She is just back from England, where she has been writing, directing and starring in talking pictures . . . Nat Ayer, on WCAE at 5, wrote "Oh, You Beautifull Doll," "If You Talk in Your Sleep" and other hit songs . . . Hibby Ayer, his brother, who appears with him, was Cornell's favorite cheer leader . . . Those Boswell Sisters, on WJAS tonight, hold a new record . . . They're on their third successive sponsored program without missing a single broadcast . . . They always sing "Heebie Jeebies" on the first program of each series because it brings them good luck . . . "Just Willie" has finally stopped stuttering . . . Parent-Teacher groups protested too many children were imitating him.

Miss Logan

Seth Parker was so touched by his broadcast from the Bowery that he is going back for another "githerin'" next Monday night. Seth—Phillips Lord in real life—discovered that the jobless, homeless men there have a real message which he hopes the radio might carry to the lawmakers. He learned what it was when he asked:

"What do you fellows want most now?"

"And in resounding chorus came back the reply:

"Work!"

Goodman Ace, author and lead in the WJAS "Easy Aces" program, received the inspiration for his script from some very real-life arguments with his wife across the bridge table.

Helene Ward halted her WCAE warbling to rush to New Haven. . . . A new baby boy, born to Betty, her sister and former stage and radio partner, is the attraction. . . . Herb Quigley, Paul Whiteman's drummer, can't play unless he has a wad of gum in his mouth . . . Nick Lucas is coming back to the air in a new program in September. . . . Ernie Hare once understudied Al Jolson. . . . Andy Sannella is learning to fly his own plane. . . . Howard Lanin is one of eight brothers, all musicians. . . . Norman Brokenshire and Welcome Lewis may take their chatter into vaudeville.

Question Box

Has Don Bestor's Orchestra ever played on Walter Winchell's dance program? When is Bestor's Orchestra heard over the network?—Jack M., Federal street.

Don Bestor and his crew have not sailed "the magic carpet"—yet. They are heard regularly from KDKA on an NBC network twice weekly, Monday and Friday at 1:30 p. m.

UNCLE BOB, BETTY READ COMICS

Reading the Sun-Telegraph comic page over WCAE tonight at 6, Uncle Bob and Betty present a riotous program of fun that everyone will enjoy.

An hour each day is devoted to the rapid-fire broadcasting of the latest news flashes from all over the world directly to WCAE listeners from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, is on the air four times daily—at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Two popular Pittsburgh artists are featured with Herb McGee on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air tonight at 11. They are Anne Zimet, blues singer, and Richard Koch, baritone.

A sprightly talk ranging from the latest coiffure to ways of making that old piece of furniture look like new is given by Madelon during her "Reflections of Madelon's Mirror" broadcast at 10:30 a. m.

Pittsburgher Late, Loses Larceny Case

BEAVER, Pa., March 17.—John P. Tully, Pittsburgh, prosecutor in the case against John Haydin, Aliquippa, was ordered to pay the costs by Judge W. A. McConnell when he failed to arrive in time to appear as a witness. Tully appeared after court had ordered a directed verdict for Haydin, charged with the larceny of insurance funds. Tully protested he hadn't a chance to testify, but was told by the court it was his own fault.

TEST CASE SEEN OVER WALSH

Lawrence Walsh, son of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, was indicted by the March grand jury on a charge that he assumed the duties of an election officer in the First District of the First Ward.

Walsh was appointed by the County Commissioners to instruct in the operation of voting machines, but the grand jury held he overstepped his authority and assisted the board. The new act authorizing voting machines says the Commissioners must appoint as instructor a person qualified to serve as an election official, and under this reading Walsh is said to have assumed he was a member of the board.

Attorneys say the question can only be interpreted through a court decision, so his trial will be in the nature of a test case.

Feel Like A New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up, poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now for a few cents. Way it works will surprise you.

CLUB FEDERATION MEETING HELD

MRS. RICHARD J. HAMILTON MRS. J. G. CHALFANT

Mrs. Hamilton, Philadelphia, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and Mrs. Chalfant, the district president, at Twentieth Century Club, Bayard street, scene this year of the annual district meeting in Pittsburgh. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Women of Southwestern District Invite State Body Here for Convention in 1933

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

If one may judge from the comments of those in attendance, then yesterday's meeting in the Twentieth Century Club was the most stimulating and the most interesting the southwestern district of the State Federation has ever had. Certainly it was the largest in the memory of this writer, 520 having registered. Among these were three General Federation officials, Miss Florence Dibert, an honorary vice president; Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, chairman of motion pictures, and Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, chairman of street and highway safety. Eleven of the 14 counties in the district were represented and members of 11 unfederated clubs were present.

From the early morning conferences through to the close the sessions moved with dispatch and business-like precision and the meeting adjourned at the unheard of hour of 3:45, this, together with the luncheon recess, giving the women an opportunity to inspect Twentieth Century's new home.

Only one piece of important business was transacted—the adoption of a resolution inviting the state body here for its 1933 convention. The presence of Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, of Philadelphia, new state president, was, of course, one of the high lights. Mrs. Hamilton gave a splendid talk on club, county and district work, stressing county libraries, the Washington bicentennial and wise spending. Miss Dibert and Mrs. Diehl also spoke and Mrs. John M. Phillips, first vice president of the state, "talked federation" under the title of "The Strength of United Women." The "Unity in Diversity" pageant by the Dormont New Century Club closed the morning session. Lucille Miller Werner led assembly singing to open both sessions. Mrs. F. F. Rohrer accompanying.

Talk by President

The four forces at work in the world—military, economic, propaganda and friendliness—were made the theme of Dr. Ralph E. Hutchison's talk. When the Allies deprived Germany of military equipment they conferred the greatest blessing on her that any country has received since the World War, he said, for, while she is going on to an economic restoration, the other nations are being weighed down with the debt of arms. There is no difference between starving a man to death and shooting him and no country that establishes an economic boycott can consider itself as not engaging in war, Dr. Hutchison continued. Gandhi may fail, he thinks, because he has combined economic forces with the force of friendliness. By having done so he has caused untold unhappiness in England, Dr. Hutchison said. In using the force of propaganda, Russia has gone one step ahead of what other so-called intelligent nations have done, the W. & J. president stated.

In his talk on "Modern Trends in Art," Elmer Stephan, art director in the public schools, defined art as "an expression of an ideal." But it must be an ideal that is acceptable to a majority of people, he added. He spoke of "artists without taste" and distinguished sharply between paintings and art. In closing he urged his hearers to have faith in what the younger generation is doing.

Stephan Speaks

Last night Mrs. Hamilton was guest of honor at a dinner in the Woman's City Club, just one of those rarely delightful affairs that can come only when a few people with mutual interests and a working sense of humor are gathered together.

Stunning! Her figure

But her skin, Tragic!
By Julia Foster ★
I just can't describe the loveliness of her figure. I was charmed. Until I saw her skin. Then . . . all loveliness was forgotten. Hard to believe so much beauty could go to waste for want of a few little words of advice!
* * *
That is what many, many beauty experts have told me... Simply, twice a day, morning and evening, apply a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water to face and throat. Work well into the pores. This is best done with the hands. Then rinse away with warm water. Finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your skin. If your face is dry, apply oil or tissue cream after the night treatment.
More than 20,000 beauty specialists have urged Palmolive for this foundation cleansing. The panel at the right, headed, "Beauty In a Test Tube," tells why. Please read every word of it carefully.
Let me pass on to you another valuable suggestion given me by a beauty expert. It's really a beauty treatment! And it's the best relaxation for tired nerves I know.
Rest in a beauty bath!
Shave a cake of Palmolive Soap. Then melt it by boiling in 4 cups of water and pour the solution into your tub. When you get in, just relax for a minute or two. Then, with the rich lather from another cake of Palmolive, massage your whole body. Fatigue, nervousness, will be gone. You'll feel like dressing up in your best things, like going places. Try it!
And I'm sure you'll want to start at once those twice-a-day Palmolive treatments for your face—to keep skin young!

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE
Olive oil for the complexion! Always known to keep skin soft, supple, youthful.
But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.
More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!
PALMOLIVE
Keep that Schoolgirl Complexion

VELVET FAVORED FOR SPRING WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 17. — Snowy ermine and deep mysterious, black velvet — surely these are the fabrics out of which sartorial dreams are woven. And what woman is there who has not at some time or another longed for an ensemble made of just such fabrics as ermine and velvet, a romantic ensemble; something to transform her into a fairy princess, exquisite, ethereal, graceful. Now and again one does see such a costume, but not often. For ermine and velvet are usually worn at night in the form of lovely cloaks. For day wear such an ensemble must be most carefully handled to avoid all tendency to the theatrical or deliberately effective, which is about the same thing. Velvet is still being worn and is used in some form or another in nearly all of the new spring collections. We are learning to look upon velvet as an all-year-round fabric, since the very fine, sheer weaves have been perfected. And the various designers have been quick to utilize the new velvets for both spring and early summer use.

* * *

WE COULD not resist the opportunity to send you a sketch and description of an exquisite ermine and velvet ensemble created by Jenny for Blanche Montel now playing at the Theatre de la Michodiere. The dress is of black chiffon velvet with a plain V necked bodice and a fitted skirt draped at the side back. The youthful little jacket of ermine suggests a vest with puffed, guimpe sleeves and a narrow rolled collar. A small muff and toque of ermine add to the charm of this costume. In the way of accessories, Mlle Montel wears Alexandrine gloves of black suede reaching above the elbow. They are done in lattice work with circular frills at the top. How do you like this romantic lady costume?

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Don't Try to Force Family To Be Like Yourself

"A quiet home life." That listens lovely, doesn't it?

But just how quiet should a quiet home life be?

Should it shut out all friends and outside interests? Should it lock the door against every distraction and intrusion and keep the hearthside sacred to pa and ma and the kids?

John Burnham thought it should. He believed that homes were for home folks only and he was sure that his wife did not love him if she hesitated on asking the neighbors in.

Well, here's a letter from another wife whose husband agreed with John. She too longed for friends and fun but she loved her husband too much to do what he didn't like and so she shut their door against the world and raised their baby in that stagnant silence. And now—

But read it for yourself this story of a family that shut life out. Listen:

WORD OF WARNING

"Dear Miss Martin—

"I just want to say a word to that John Burnham who wanted his wife to give up her friends 'for his sake' and lead a quiet chimney-corner life. I want to say a word of warning to his wife—and him, too.

"My husband was something like him.

"And now here is where I made my big mistake. I catered to his whims. I gave up my friends and my company as he demanded, and by degrees we lost them all, a few at a time, until now we both sit quietly, alone, most of the time.

"Was I happy this way? I'll say I wasn't! I lost something out of life that made me old before my time.

LOST HAPPINESS

"And now comes the worst part of it. We have a daughter. She grew up in that quiet, unsocial atmosphere that her father was so fond of and she, too, has grown old while she is still a youngster.

"She is lacking in the adaptability and the other qualifications that might give her friends and pleasure, because she never had a chance to develop those qualities. Consequently she has no friends and now when she is grown to womanhood she doesn't know how to make them. She has lost most of the happiness that young people should have as they grow up.

So I say to John:

"Don't be so foolish. Your family has rights as well as you. Give them the pleasure they need in your own home. Don't steal other folks happiness by trying to force them to be like yourself. Fun and friends are not sin, even if you do think so. Maybe you think you don't need them but other folks do, and I'll gamble you'd be happier yourself if you'd quit feeling injured and get a little livelier.

I sit and look back on my folly in giving in to my husband's selfishness, for that is what it was, and I feel like kicking myself. Get in your corner if you must, John, but watch the fun and think of the time when you were a boy and knew how to enjoy living."

BE MORE CONSIDERATE

"Make your wife happy. Quit thinking so much about yourself and think of her. Come out of it and find how much happiness there is in going 50-50 and considering her as well as yourself.

"One Who Tried This Corner Stuff—and Found It Wanting."

Pretty terrible, isn't it—three spirits rotting because one spirit was afraid to face life? And so life revenged herself, as she always does.

If you aren't for life, she's not for you.

If you won't take her challenge, you'll not get her gifts.

If you won't live, you'll die.

And many a "quiet home" that houses cowardly, selfish spirits becomes, though no wreath hangs on the door—a house of death.

Is yours a house of death?

Fay King Delights to See Letters Fly at Initial Handkerchief Sale

BUT IF YOU HOLD IT THIS WAY AN "M" WILL DO FOR A "W"
AND WANTS "R" — I'M LOOKING FOR "V"
SHE TOOK THEM RIGHT OUT OF MY HAND!
THE BEST I COULD DO WAS TO FIND INITIALS FOR THE DAYS OF THE WEEK
FAY KING

By FAY KING

All bargain sales are fun, but none more so than the initialed handkerchief sale.

The table is heaped high with hankies and the hunters gather around and dig like mad looking for the initial they want.

Handkerchiefs are flying in the air like kites and floating to the floor like feathers.

Friendships of the moment are formed so that two or three can look at the same time for several different initials.

Woe unto that one that in a weak moment of indecision lets fall to the table again a wanted initial. It is grabbed and gone forever.

Old English initials are the most popular because an "H" looks like a "K" and an "E" can be made to do for a "C."

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Visit of Welcome

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother is to be married next month and as yet, the mother of the bride-to-be and my mother have never met. Am I right in saying that it is up to the bride-to-be and her mother to invite my mother to their home so that they can become acquainted? M.

The first social move after the engagement has been determined on, is for the mother and father, or at least the mother, of the prospective groom to call on the fiancee and her parents. This is a very important visit, this visit-of-welcome that the groom's mother or parents make to the girl whom their son has chosen to be his wife. When social rules and regulations were much stricter than they are now this visit-of-welcome was always made wherever possible, within 24 hours after the young man informed his family of the happy news of his engagement. But, in any event, it should be made as soon as possible. So your mother should go to call on the young lady and her mother. Then any further courtesies may be extended, according to the convenience of either family.

Mourning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Does one go into deep mourning, including a black veil when one's husband's mother dies, or is it proper just to wear a black dress until after the funeral? H.

It is not necessary to wear the mourning veil, even for the funeral, but one should wear a black costume. After the funeral, the black dress might be relieved with touches of white, for a little while, say for two months.

Household Hints

Before applying polish to a grate or stove that has been burned red on top through overheating, rub well with a cut lemon.

In the event of an enamelled saucepan falling, care should be taken to avoid using it for some time afterwards, as the chipping continues for several hours after the accident occurs.

Linoleum that has lost its original bright appearance can be restored by rubbing lightly and evenly with a piece of beeswax. Polish afterwards with a piece of flannel that has been warmed in the oven.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Youth must have its fling—and youth does—but youth isn't made of wire and fiddle strings as it fondly imagines. And that's why the dear girls should, if possible, catch nine hours of restful sleep. Even Sweet Sixteen can't have too many merry evenings and bob up every morning with complexion fresh and colorful, eyes full of starshine, spirits on their toes. Late hours take the ginger out of a girl, even the strongest, and it's no use stocking up on cosmetics or trailing to the beauty works for facials if the body does not have the rest it needs.

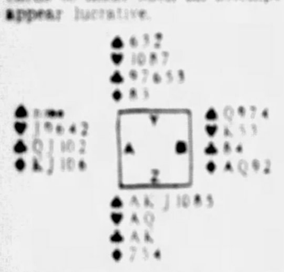
Going stale, feeling sunk? That kind of spiritual mildew settles on every woman now and then, especially if she had toddled past the 40 milestone. Same old hairdress, same old clothes, same old job! Nothing for it but an intoxicating beauty spree, a facial to put the smile back on, a hairdo with some new quirk to put sass in it, an arm and hand molding session. After which there should be a visit to the hat shop. A new chapeau cures all manner of beauty ills, especially if it is chic and piquant. Nothing like it to gingerize the feminine constitution.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted By Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Bad Strategy.

I just saw Z open contracting on the hand shown below, with 4 Spades. It happened at one of the best known card clubs to be found in the world. There is no criticism of such a declaration when just four odd are required to go game. The majority of bidders would have preferred a demand declaration, with slam possibilities in mind. Of course there was no adverse bidding. Z held too many high cards to make such an attempt appear lucrative.



The opening lead was the Q of clubs, which was won by the declarer's Ace, false carded. It was not an unnatural hope that with nine trumps the four adversely held spades should fall in two leads, leaving dummy with one trump for ruffing the declarer's third losing diamond. Z led his K of spades only to discover that the four missing trumps were held by B, and that one spade trick must be lost. He then should have stopped leading trumps and led a losing diamond, hoping that B would not win the trick and lead back a trump, to prevent dummy from ruffing a diamond, also to avoid letting dummy in, to lead up to the declarer through B's K of hearts. Instead of utilising his only hope of fulfilling his game contract, Z banged down his Ace of spades, followed by his J. B won the trick with his Q, led his Ace of diamonds. When A gave him a come-on with the 10, B led a low diamond, which A took with his J, and then led out his K, winning a third diamond trick. Z trumped the fourth lead of diamonds, and picked up B's last trump. Try as he might, Z never was able to force B to unguard his K of hearts; finally the declarer had to give B a heart trick. Three lost diamonds, one trump and one heart trick—five tricks total lost—defeated the contract by two tricks.

Z could have gone game readily had he planned ahead more carefully. There is little danger that an adversary will trump the third round of your suit when there are missing eight cards of the suit. Suppose that Z had led a low diamond when he was first in the lead? In all probability B would have overplayed his partner's diamond to win the trick and lead a spade. Not knowing that B held all four missing trumps, Z would have put his K only to find that A was void of spades. He could then have led another losing diamond, but even had B led back a trump, dummy could have trumped the third lead of diamonds, thus saving one trick. Also dummy would have been in position to lead a heart toward the declarer's A-Q. As the cards happen to lie that would have saved Z his second trick. If perfectly played there would have been lost only two diamond tricks, and one trump trick, three tricks in all. That would have been quite a different matter from going down two tricks.

Regardless of what your snap judgment may suggest, it always is well to think a second time of the best method of playing any hand—even if it does appear to be simple.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Cleanliness Best Insurance Against Dread Typhus

Typhus fever has always been associated with filth and unhygienic surroundings. "The history of typhus fever is the history of human wretchedness," said a wise man of old. As civilization and education have spread over the face of the earth, this disease has greatly decreased.

Dr. Copeland

It was not until the Sixteenth Century that typhus fever was recognized and treated as a distinct disease. It is now believed to be carried by a parasite resembling the ordinary body louse.

Typhus fever occurs whenever large numbers of people are massed together under poor hygienic conditions. It is always found in wars. In the recent World War the disease was one of the worst afflictions of trench life.

The disease is more common in Europe than in this country. The last epidemic in America was in 1893, and since that only occasional cases have been reported. When the disease appears in this country, it is usually found among recent immigrants.

Among the signs of typhus fever are sudden chill and fever. The fever persists and on the second day may be as high as 105 degrees. Nausea, headache and aching pains are common signs.

On the third to fifth day a reddish rash appears. This rash changes from a pinkish red to a purplish brown, and rapidly spreads all over the body except the face. Insomnia and restlessness are present, and in severe cases the patient may become delirious.

The crisis is reached on the thirteenth or fourteenth day. After that the aches, pains and fever gradually disappear.

A sufferer from this disease requires expert care and nursing. Without it there is always danger of a serious complication, such as broncho-pneumonia.

The parasites carrying the ailment must be removed from all clothing and bedding. At the beginning of the disease a thorough cleansing of the body is essential, and a daily bath is given thereafter.

Prevention of this disease is largely a matter of personal cleanliness. It is also a problem of social welfare. Dark, crowded unsanitary homes are favorable to infection with typhus fever. With complete eradication of these factors this disease will no longer be encountered, and I am glad to say that typhus fever is already a rare disease.

ONE SOAP that does the work of TWO

Chipso soaks heavy cottons clean—yet protects the life and lustre of your finest silks

Women are exclaiming over this new kind of soap! "It saves us so much work," they say. "It gets dirt out so thoroughly and quickly. Yet it's as gentle to fine things as those 'special' soaps for silk and wool. It really seems to keep my clothes like new."

Yes—these things are true about Chipso. Just within the past year, Procter & Gamble discovered a new way to make Chipso. This new process has increased Chipso's cleansing power to an amazing degree, without sacrificing safety. The new Chipso does not contain the slightest trace of harshness!

Now Chipso washes as fast as strong powdered soaps—yet it is as gentle as rain-water for silks, woolens and your hands.

Now you can wash everything—from the heaviest grimiest cottons to the daintiest of silk undies—with this one thorough, safe soap!

Chipso will save you hard rubbing. These velvety rain-soft suds simply lift even stubborn dirt out of your clothes. Chipso will save your clothes—even your cottons and linens will wear longer, colors will stay fresher. And Chipso will save you all that inconvenient "special" washing of fine things with a "special" soap. These velvety, rain-soft suds preserve the life and color of silks—keep woolens fluffy.

How can you tell when a soap is too strong?

Let your hands be your guide. Remember—a soap that roughens your hands when you wash dishes is too strong for your clothes.

Buy a box of Chipso for your dishes and cleaning. In just a few days, your hands will prove to you that Chipso suds are as gentle as rain. Buy a box of Chipso for your laundry. Your first washday will prove to you that Chipso gives you a snowy wash with much less work. Your grocer has these new Chipso Flakes now—they come in the same big blue boxes with the yellow stripe, but inside they are finer than ever.

"QUICK as lightning, GENTLE as rain"

SAFE FOR FINE THINGS
Chipso is safe as rain-water for silks, woolens—and your hands.

QUICK FOR DIRTY CLOTHES
Chipso makes clothes as white—washes as fast—as strong powdered soaps; and it's safe.

Don't let them count you out!
a "run-down" body can't stand up under work and worry

A cheerful helper is not enough — not if you are "run-down" physically

"Mother, I do wish you were well and strong . . . you always look tired—what did Daddy mean this morning when he said your blood count was low?"

So often we hear of a "low blood count." Few escape it. Overwork, worry, diet neglect, colds and such often reduce to the danger point the red-cells in the blood—those precious workers that build and sustain the body.

When a lowered blood count is allowed to continue, that "tired feeling" takes hold . . . vitality is reduced . . . normal resistance to infection and disease is lacking.

Dangerous consequences often follow the neglect of a lowered blood count.

The reasonable way to health

It isn't fair to expect one to like work or to enjoy play when in a "run-down" condition. Without plenty of rich, red-blood-cells there could be no strong, sturdy men, and healthy, beautiful women.

Ordinarily you don't need to stay in bed or go to a distant health resort to restore the red-cells and hemoglobin in your blood . . . usually S.S.S. will do it right at home and while you are up and going. In most cases it is effective from the start . . . improvement is progressive. Put it to the test if you want to regain your vitality . . . firm flesh . . . a clear skin—so necessary to charm and personality.

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—this long established medicine acts by stimulating the secretions of the stomach . . . reviving the appetite . . . aiding digestion . . . regenerating hemoglobin . . . restoring the red-blood-cells—and builds greater resistance against infection and disease.

S.S.S. popularity due to merit

S.S.S. helpfulness is illustrated by this fact—our records show that nearly one-half of those who have taken it, for the first time, do so upon the recommendation of some friend who has been benefited. Can there be any stronger recommendation for its merit and usefulness than this?

A distinctive thing about S.S.S. is that it is made from fresh roots, barks and herbs . . . it is readily absorbed by the system. Another thing is that its efficiency has been proved by scientific tests and by its use for more than 100 years. It is a safe Tonic to take.

S. S. S. is an economical way to health. Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes; regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. It may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

Break Not Likely to Affect Primary

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

The political break between Gov. Pinchot and Senator James J. Coyne, of Pittsburgh, is not apt to have any material effect on the statewide primary election. That does not mean that either gentleman lacks potency when he peels his coat for political activities, but observers throughout the state do not believe, so far as the heads of the ticket are concerned, that Allegheny County is going to turn the balance as between organization and independent candidates, no matter what the lineups here are. Some fell out with Pinchot because he would not support the Independent, or administration candidates.

But there should be entertaining repercussions in the next session of the Legislature, whether special or regular. In the regular session last winter the unusual spectacle was presented of the Allegheny County delegation, or that substantial part of it which could be influenced by Coyne and Mayor Kline, supporting the Governor's legislative program. Remembering the first administration of Mr. Pinchot, when he labeled those same Pittsburghers "political gangsters," etc., this apparent relation of the mutual admiration and help was worth the watching.

These were the same gentlemen whom the Governor had excoriated in 1926, when he even threatened impeachment proceedings against Mayor Kline, then opposing him for Senator. Coyne and Kline both supported Pinchot in the election of 1930, and Coyne was for him in the primary.

The Governor was not ungrateful for this help, and Coyne had the open sesame to his office, much to the perturbation of many Independents who thought old loves should be as popular as new. But the Senator had legislative votes to deliver, which the Independents did not.

* * *

Return to Old Feudal Days by Pinchot, County

It is common gossip that the Governor, through an agent extremely close in his confidence, raised a row with the Pittsburgh Registration Commission because some Coyne lieutenants felt they were not being treated right in the distribution of registrar posts. It is also political gossip that Registration Commissioner E. Lowry Humes was removed by Pinchot through the influence of Coyne.

But now, as Walter Winchell would say, the Governor and the Senator have "pfft." So there will be a return to the old feudal days, so far as Mr. Pinchot and the Allegheny and Pittsburgh Republican organizations are concerned. When he attacks Philadelphia he can just add Pittsburgh, as he once did, and make one speech do for two attacks.

And when the next legislative session convenes the majority of the Allegheny County legislative delegation, unless its complexion changes radically, will joyously slaughter Mr. Pinchot's pet bills, for by that time the Governor will have applied the ax to a number of organization men here who have state jobs.

Another question raised is the course to be followed by Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar. He has long been a Pinchot follower, and once was appointed a Common Pleas Court Judge by the Governor. He was urged for his present job by Coyne, to the displeasure of Independent leaders. Now, will the Sheriff stick with the Governor or the Senator? He will have difficulty doing both, though from watching some other gentlemen in the state attempt to ride two horses going in opposite directions he may believe it can be done.

Replying to an attack by the Governor, Gen. Edward Martin says he did not suggest the calling of a special session, merely expressing his willingness to attend a conference which might lay a harmonious groundwork for a session in the interests of relief.

So far as I know, that was as far as the General, who is also state chairman, went, and is the way he was quoted here.

State Organization Again High-Hats Reed

The Republican state organization once again has high-hatted Senator David A. Reed. Some weeks ago, when Representative Louis T. McFadden, of the Fifteenth District, attacked the President, Senator Reed announced from the steps of the White House that McFadden would be shorn of all patronage in his district. That was done. Postmaster Walter Brown adding the clincher in a sharp note to McFadden.

But then Senator Reed announced that, so far as Pennsylvania was concerned, "McFadden will be treated as one dead," and continued with an ominous note that soon there would be a primary here, and the regular Republicans of the state would see that McFadden really became politically defunct.

But now observe, the Republican State Committee through its influence is doing its best to secure the re-election of McFadden, aiding this fellow who "insulted" the President. That looks like flouting both the feelings of Mr. Hoover and the pronouncements of Senator Reed, and seems almost treason.

But the alternative to McFadden, which Senator Reed did not appear to realize, is Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, a candidate for the Republican nomination against the Fifteenth District incumbent. And that is something the state organization can't swallow, whatever the tender sensibilities of the President or the finality of the Senator who sees his sentence of death overruled.

YOUNG MOTHER WINS WCAE CONTEST

Mrs. Laura Walters Named 'Girl With Sweetest Voice' After 3,500 Receive Tests

Twenty-month-old Billy Walters, of 4014 Saline street, Squirrel Hill, will tell you, in baby fashion today, that he is the luckiest boy in town. His mother, Mrs. Laura Walters, has the sweetest voice in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Walters was identified as voice No. 1 in the radio broadcast test.

In the final elimination of the "sweetest voice" contest, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and radio station WCAE, her voice was adjudged best of the five finalists whose auditions were broadcast during the WCAE Nite Club hour last night.

The judges were Mrs. Byron W. King, Jr., of the Byron W. King School of Oratory; James Grove Fulton, former coach of the Harvard debating team, and King Morris, traffic superintendent of the Bell Telephone Company.

So that the final decision of the judges, whose task became increasingly difficult as the number of contestants dwindled from 2,000 to five, might be utterly fair and impartial, they listened to the final auditions from a radio in a downtown music store. At no time during the contest did any judge see or know the identity of any participant who was at the time receiving an audition.

To give each of the five finalists the best possible chance, the copy they read last night was given them nearly an hour in advance of speaking, to study and practice.

More than 3,500 girls from Pittsburgh and suburban districts entered the contest, which opened January 11, and closed February 2. Auditions began on February 29 at the Alvin Theater. During the week of March 1, nearly 300 girls received public auditions nightly, and five winners were picked from each geographical group. Last Saturday, the 35 who survived the early eliminations dwindled to five in the semi-final auditions held at WCAE.

The four others in the final eliminations finished as follows: Adelaide Lasner, 1422 Severn street, known as voice No. 5, won second place; Jean B. Dunkerly, 314 Fourteenth street, Beaver Falls, No. 2, was third; Elizabeth Wolf, 1101 Brabec street, No. 4, was fourth, and Anne Sommers, 1918 St. Ives street, No. 3, was fifth.

Politicians Learn Chiseling in Dull Times Won't Do

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

NEW YORK, March 17.

All these investigations have taught the politicians a lesson.

After this they will be honest during depressions.

It's all right to milk the cow when the goose hangs high and everything is as merry as recaptured alimony.

But when things aren't so hot the public resents the chiseling.

Say, when a man is happy and contented, you can shave him without lather and he will never notice it.

Remember the story about the farmer getting wise that the gambler was dealing 'em off the south end of the deck?

He said:

"Mister, will you give me my cards off the top like the rest of 'em?

"I ain't saying there's anything crooked, but I'm superstitious."

And right now we are a trifle nervous ourselves.

PAINTING GIVEN FATHER COX

An oil painting more than 7 feet wide and 5 feet high, showing the Rev. James R. Cox and his followers on their march to Washington, was presented to Father Cox at St. Patrick's Church yesterday by the artist, Joseph Lo Cascio, 141 Grant avenue, West Etna. The picture is to be hung in Father Cox's office.

When the jobless army returned to Pittsburgh, friends of Lo Cascio who had made the trip began to tell him about it, asking him to paint a scene from the march. Lo Cascio had never seen Father Cox. He went to St. Patrick's Church for several services and there sketched the priest.

Lo Cascio, foreman in an automobile shop in Center avenue, has been painting since he was 8. He also does monumental work. The painting shows Father Cox, Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, and "Uncle Sam" marching through the "Strip," followed by the little red truck and the jobless army.

STUDENT LOSES LIFE IN LAKE

Fishermen were searching the shores of Lake Erie today for the body of Philip Hack, 19, of 2917 Waterman street, Pittsburgh, a student at Holy Cross College, who drowned in the lake near Dunkirk, N. Y., yesterday.

Three youthful companions of Hack are suffering from exposure in Brooks Memorial Hospital, Dunkirk.

They are Alphonsus Wittborn, 24, and John Dillon, 18, both of Pittsburgh and Eugene Vanston, 17, of Scranton.

Hack, with his companions, dived into the water to swim a 30-foot channel to safety after the ice floes on which they were walking separated and drifted out into the lake. Hack was missing when the others reached shore.

He has been attending Holy Cross College for five years. He is the son of J. G. Hack. Besides his father, he leaves two sisters, Anna Marie and Dorothy Hack.

FUMES ROUT 2 FAMILIES

Two families were affected by fumes early today when a valve failed to function in a refrigeration plant in the basement of the grocery of S. Smith, 273 Dinwiddie street.

Firemen were called when Ben Schwartz, who lives on the second floor, his wife, Bella, and their two-year-old son, Melvin, were routed from the building. The fire fighters put on gas masks and corrected the valve.

The Schwartz family, and Harry Becker, his wife, Ethel, and their son, Milton, 3, who occupy the third floor, were forced to take refuge in neighboring homes until their own rooms were aired.

RADICAL MINERS CONVENE HERE

Three hundred delegates of the National Miners Union, left wing group of coal workers, representing all principal coal fields in the United States, were to meet in national convention today in the Pythian Temple, 2021 Center avenue.

Frank Borich, national secretary, was to open the four-day convention at 1 p. m., with a three-hour speech on the accomplishments of the union during the past year.

Major issues on the program include the adoption of resolutions calling for the immediate release of National Miners Union members now in the Allegheny County Workhouse, an attack on the Davis-Kelly coal bill and the drawing up of a new constitution for the union.

Borich branded the coal bill sponsored by Senator James J. Davis and Congressman Clyde Kelly:

"Another instrument for coal operators to further suppress the miners."

In the draft of a general resolution to be offered to the convention, is a bitter attack on the United Mine Workers of America.

County Won't Pay Poor Visitors' Fees

The $4,500 ordered paid the poor board visitors by Judge James H. Gray will not be paid by the County Commissioners. When the matter again came up at yesterday's commissioners' meeting, Special Counsel Mortimer B. Lesher reiterated his opinion that the commissioners are not liable for the fees.

The visitors, G. M. McDonald, E. H. Wicks and Paul E. Hutchinson were advised that in spite of the court order to pay them the commissioners are of the opinion that the poor directors should pay the bill.

Loomis, manager of the motor truck division of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, was to be the speaker at the Pitt Business Men's Luncheon Club today, discussing "Regulation of Motor Vehicle Transportation." COUNCIL VOTE ON MONDAY SOUGHT

Early Action Demanded On Bill to Curb Costly Traffic Violation Racket

A showdown on the automobile traffic tag "fixing" racket, which it has been estimated costs the city at least $120,000 a year, has been scheduled for next Monday by Councilman Robert Garland.

Councilmen Garland and P. J. McArdle have signified their intention of attempting to force adoption of the codified traffic ordinance which, if it were as effective here as it has been in other cities would plug up this revenue leak and make the enforcement of minor traffic regulations less of a joke than all enforcement heads admit they are.

COUNCIL DODGES ISSUE

Through the shelving of the ordinance numerous times since its enactment was made almost mandatory by an act of Legislature, which went into effect in January, 1929, most members of Council have dodged statements indicating their stand in the matter.

The most recent public utterances of some of them were made in July, 1930, when Public Safety Director James M. Clark charged councilmen and ward chairmen with fixing a large part of the 119,000 tags which disappeared after being issued during that year.

Apparently unmoved by the seriousness of the situation, President John Herron at that time said of the scientifically prepared ordinance:

"I believe the present ordinance against parking is drastic enough. I believe the traffic situation is being handled better every day."

'FIXING' CONTINUES

Since then uncounted thousands more tags have been "fixed," statistics indicate. Herron recently indicated the cost of enacting the new ordinance, about $1,000, was a good reason for not urging its passage.

Robert J. Alderdice, at that time a councilman and now city budget controller, contended the new ordinance was too drastic and volunteered that he had "fixed" tags.

Since then Council has consistently failed to take any action except that which shelved the ordinance.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Yesterday I finished my little poem: "The wets have a handfull of drinks, and the drys think they have a handfull of votes." Well, I meant to put, but I forgot it, the words "or visa versa," but I don't want to get mixed up in that argument. No person has ever convinced another on prohibition. Peoples' minds are changed through observation, and not through argument. John Hayes Hammond, the great mining engineer, who through somebody's oversight never became President, was out to see me. He and the author of that great book, "Scouting on Two Continents." We talked of South Africa, where we had all prowled about at one time or another. Yours, WILL.

Life rolls smoothly along for the boys who fill the orders at McCann's downtown store. They have taken to roller skates to speed their work and rest their feet, explains Tom Young, who covers between five and seven miles a day on skates. He is proud as he relates:

"I can carry 100 pounds of groceries at a time on my skates and do it a whole lot easier and faster than by walking. And I've never broken an egg yet."

'Bucky,' South Park Deer, To Be Butchered for Needy

Guests at the McKeesport Helping Hand are going to have venison, even though it's not hunting season.

"Bucky," a mule deer "raised on the bottle" in South Park, is going to be killed and butchered. An orphan deer presented to the park three years ago by the State Game Commission, "Bucky" has thrived so well and become so obstreperous that permission has been given Director Paul B. Riis to butcher him.

Riis told the commissioners yesterday that although to those who know him "Bucky" is a pet, he is so vicious with strangers that instead of being an attraction, he is a menace in the park.

Commissioner C. M. Barr made a motion that when "Bucky" becomes venison that it be given to the McKeesport Helping Hand, representatives of which appeared before the commissioners asking for a maintenance donation yesterday.

CARMEL, Cal., March 17.—(INS.)—Married after a strange romance that developed during an experiment in human behavior, Jean Toomer, Negro poet, essayist and psychologist, and his bride, Margery Latimer, white novelist and graduate of Columbia University, were in a honeymoon cottage today.

The experiment, arranged by Toomer, was conducted at Portage, Wis., and involved eight "subjects" who lived for two months in a three-room cottage while their reactions were studied. Miss Latimer was one of the "subjects."

The object of the experiment, Toomer explained, was to keep four "intellectual" women and four "intellectual" men in close social contact to observe the psychological effects. Chaperonage was provided by two married couples among the "subjects."

'Mickey Mouse' Real Creature to Boy, 5

MRS. HUGH S. ELDER AND HER PUPPETING SON, DAVID, 5

Mother Contrives Puppets for Show

The Sun-Telegraph comic character "Mickey Mouse" is a very real creature to little David Elder, 5-year-old son of Mrs. Hugh S. Elder, of 815 Coal street, Wilkinsburg. It isn't every little boy's mother who makes marionettes for puppet shows at home.

Mrs. Elder has been making dolls ever since she played with them herself when she was a small girl. Last Christmas she decided to try her hand at animated dolls. One of David's old stockings, a wad of cotton, a scrap of cloth and a bit of thread and a bestringed Mickey Mouse came to life in the Elder household.

His popularity was so immediate that a "Skippy" soon made his appearance to keep Mickey from being lonesome. The latest addition to the puppet family is "Carrots," a sad-faced clown with a red button nose and a red scar mouth. He gets his name from his yellow yarn silk hair.

Mr. Elder is making a stage for the puppet performances. Mrs. Elder plans to give for neighborhood children at home and before David's kindergarten schoolmates in the McNair School in Wilkinsburg. David is learning to manipulate the strings himself.

"A PYORRHEA specialist made THIS toothpaste

Of course it is MORE THAN A TOOTHPASTE

There is a reason for this double-duty toothpaste, a reason that appeals to all men and women who are interested in keeping their teeth.

Nobody today believes that simple polishing is all that is needed to keep healthy teeth. When teeth "come out" there is a deeper cause than the mere cleanliness or non-cleanliness of the enamel.

Watch your gums as well as your teeth. Half of the adult teeth lost are due to pyorrhea. Dr. R. J. Forhan specialized in this disease. He spent twenty-six years in his chosen work and produced the toothpaste which bears his name —"Forhan's."

Brush your teeth and massage your gums with Forhan's. Follow the directions in the package. Trust Forhan's to keep your teeth white and glistening. Even for this purpose there is no finer toothpaste made. But that is only one duty of Forhan's. Its other duty is to protect your gums.

Dentists all over the country are using the professional formula of Dr. Forhan in treating pyorrhea and Forhan's Toothpaste preserves the same scientific principle for preventive hygiene at home. Forhan's is a pleasant-tasting agreeable toothpaste for general family use. It is pure and mild—liked by the children. But remember: "it's more than a toothpaste." Large tube. Lasts long time.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Aftermath

When I too long have brooded here alone,
Reflected every contour of your face,
Recalled the easy laughter we have known,
Remembered every gay and fadeless place,
Each tender vow, the foolish words we spent,
The arguments and ecstasies we've had,
I am convinced it's more intelligent
To walk alone and never love a lad.

Those nearest to the heart but hold the blade
To stab more surely. Each is but a loan
That is recalled. And I, too weakly made,
Have praise for those who guard a heart of stone,
Have praise, indeed, for those who love but know Enough, when love has gone, to let it go —Jane Sayre.

Gag

Take it from Ralf Harolde, Hollywood newest screen villian. One of the world's worst hams, who worked on rare occasions, got a walk-on role in a cheap rep show playing the sticks. The show could afford no scenery, so when it reached a particularly terrible opry house over a livery stable of a tiny town the only available set was a street scene in Venice.

The second act required a drawing room set. The ham had one line in the show. "Mi Lord, the carriage waits without!" Just before the curtain was to lift the manager hastened back stage and told the hambo to change the line to "Mi Lord, the gondola waits without!"

Frightfully distracted, he dramatically strode from the stage and screamed:

"Heavens! More studs! ! !"

Why Actors Die Young

Then there's the quip about Oliver & Lee who requested the property man of an opry house to get them a fireplace or a center-door farce, all of which was Greek to the small town stage hand.

After a long absence he returned with the news that he couldn't find a fireplace, but that he could get a darn good oil stove.

Titter for Tatter

Russ Columbo now at the Palace has been reading what others have said or written about critics. Baron reports Russ once attributed this squelch svelegant to Sir Henry Wotten in "Apothegms"—viz.:

"Critics are like brushers of noblemen's clothes."

Dr. Sirovich, it now appears, has one alleged producer, one alleged playwright and one alleged star on his side.

Hurray for the Irish!

The other day we tossed a scallion to an Irish-owned employment agency on Sixth avenue because it posted a sign reading:

"No Irish Neew Apply."

Now comes a reminder from William Kenny of East Haven, Conn., who says that this is taken from an old Dean Swift quotation. Swift saw the same sign on a factory—No Irish Need Apply!

So he took out his pencil and under that sign he swiftied:

"Whoever wrote this wrote it well. For the same is written on the Gates of Hell!"

A Fool and His Money

They were discussing a well-known entertainer who also directs an orchestra. He decided to get in the big money, so he changed his booking agents and the new representative finally promoted a definite offer for $7,500 a week. For eight weeks—meaning a total of $60,000.

The star's head started to inflate. So he demanded that the wage be net, with no commissions taken out for the Theater Circuit's booking bureau. They agreed. Then he decided he wanted his crew's railroad fares paid, too. They agreed to that!

Then he demanded they also pay for the sleepers!

To which the fed up circuit refused to bend and called the whole thing off.

The sleepers would have cost the star about $50.

Luxury

It once was considered "smalltime" to be seen dining in the Automat, that nickel-in-the-slot restaurant in the Times Square area.

Now you can dine there and realize how good you have it. That is, if you sit at a window table.

And look out at the longest Breadline in the world.

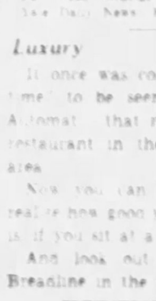
Noel Coward On Social Visit

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.

Paying Hollywood a brief visit, mostly social, the English playwright Noel Coward, tells me he will not adapt his new hit, Cavalcade, or any other of his works for the screen. Nor will he write any originals for the talkies. At least not now.

It took me two days to make a date with the busy author at his Beverly Hills hotel, and when I finally talked to him he had just breezed in from a polo game with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.



Noel Coward declares, "It would be starting all over again for me. I've been in the theater for 32 years, and I like it. Why should I change?"

He admits that Fox is negotiating for several of his plays, but says the deal is not closed as yet.

"In any event, I shall not have anything to do with the adaptation," he declares. "It would be starting all over again for me. I've been in the theater for 32 years, and I like it. Why should I change?"

On the other hand, Coward insists he is a very good audience for the talkies. He thought young Douglas "The Dawn Patrol" an excellent picture, and is anxious to see Helen Hayes in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet." So far he confesses, he has not seen the film version of his own "Private Lives."

One reason is he has been traveling in South America—including some remote regions, for the past four months.

He denies reports he has finished another play. Only a few ideas and notes he explains, and these bearing no relations to his travels.

"The more jungles place I'm in," he says, "the more inclined I am to write about London."

Coward will be in Hollywood for about 10 days and then goes on to New York and to London. He still wants to do a play for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine, but has no definite idea in mind.

AND SO TO GOSSIP

The first talking pictures ever shown in Tahiti were projected on a sail. Douglas Fairbanks rigged up this novel screen on his yacht "Invader." He used his portable equipment for the sound. Papeete has one picture show, but it uses only silents. Doug, incidentally, has ordered new pictures to be shipped to him from time to time. Creighton Chaney bested the physical instructor at R. K. O. in a wrestling match. It develops he was a champion at the Hollywood Athletic Club. Received Elsa Landis' new book, "House for Sale" today. More of it later. . . . Junior Laemmle won't be back in Hollywood as soon as was expected. Illness delayed his departure from New York.

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The appeal of Col. The Globe Trotter describes all the details of the international man-hunt.

Tech Drama Students Try Flight With Chekhov's 'Sea Gull'

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The Little Theater of Tech Drama School again had a red-letter night of high endeavor through its production of Anton Chekhov's play, "The Sea Gull." Pittsburgh has seen his "Uncle Vanya" and "The Cherry Orchard," and knows what to expect from this Russian who was already an immortal when he died at the age of 44.

George Seibel

Chekhov is best known by his short stories—very short stories which put him between Maupassant and O. Henry. He knew better than anybody else how to paint the unseen tears of his characters, and the expression "a Chekhov sorrow" has become proverbial. He also painted details with such loving care that he creates an illusion of the truth of life as few other authors do.

But he paints a very small world—the world of Russia's frustrated intellectuals, paralyzed by their apathy. In "The Sea Gull" the young hero, Kostya, is so inept that in the second act his effort to blow his brains out fails—which used to be a joke of the German comedian who attempted suicide and missed. But every other figure is almost as hopelessly indecisive and gets nowhere—a herbarium of Hamlets.

NOT FOR YOUTH

It is obvious that a play of this sort, depending on the subtlest values, is not for youth to interpret. Yet the young people of Tech Drama School acquitted themselves with considerable credit. The double and sometimes triple casting of parts makes it impossible to say who was who among the characters, nor is it necessary. All played earnestly, while none played supremely.

Plays like the Chekhov brand are for companies like the Moscow Art Theater of that flawless crew. Jed Harris brought here to act "Uncle Vanya." All the more honor to the young people who attempted this difficult series of characterizations and this somber symbolism.

SHADOW OF IBSEN

The symbolism isn't particularly sublime for the sea gull evidently is a poor relation of Ibsen's wild duck. There are also echoes of Ostrovsky's "Storm" in the drama. Outside of the third act there is not much action, and there the action is overwrought. Dramatic force is lacking in the play because there is no dramatic force in the characters.

Chekhov himself, asked in a letter what Russians needed, answered, "Most of all, desire, force of character—we have enough of whining shapelessness." His "Sea Gull" illustrates that defect. A group of intellectuals in the country don't know what to do. And they don't do it. Kostya's gun probably went off by accident, or maybe he was trying to imitate Hedda Gabler.

All of which does not detract from the credit of the Tech Players for attempting this difficult piece of genre work.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Broadway Attorney

THE LAWYER smiled reassuringly at the youth.

"You know my reputation," he said, "and you know that, when you talk to me, you can tell me the entire truth without any worry whatsoever."

"I know that," he replied, "I know you're the greatest lawyer in the world. But I've done a terrible thing. I'm facing jail for a long, long time. And I'm frightened."

The young man nodded nervously.

"You're not the first man to be in that situation," he murmured, "and I assure you that you will most assuredly not be the last. Now, listen. If you want me to advise you, start at the beginning and tell me your story.

"I've met you in the cafes several times and I like you. Otherwise I assure you that I wouldn't be bothering with you in the first place. Make up your mind that I can help you and stop all this nervousness. Go ahead."

The young man wet his lips.

"When you saw me around the cafes," he began, "you felt that, because I tossed money around me as though it meant nothing to me, I was the son of some multi-millionaire who was out to spend a million or two as quickly as possible. I only wish that were true.

"It's not. I'm actually a cashier in the ——— bank. And when I tell you that, you already know most of the story. I guess that any time a bank cashier goes on a spending spree, the answer isn't too difficult to supply."

The youth was into his story now. He was speaking rapidly and it was evident that he was making a complete confession.

"I don't know how I started. Oh, well, I guess that's not quite true. I started to steal because I liked the Broadway life. I suppose you've listened to many similar cases, but I honestly believed that I could return every penny before they'd ever catch up with me.

"You know how it goes. If I owed $5,000 to the bank, I figured that it would be a cinch to make that up in a stock deal or by cashing one good bet on a pony. I kept taking more and more—and the more I bet or the more I gambled on the street, the more I lost.

"More than that, I was drinking a lot. You saw me on Broadway and you know the way I carried on. While I was drunk it was a very simple thing to forget all my troubles. With six drinks under my belt, I got the notion that the game was almost over, and that the more I spent the more I would have to remember in the years to come. It just didn't make any difference."

The young man stopped. Again the attorney smiled reassuringly.

"Go on," he urged. "You're telling a highly interesting story. Don't stop now."

"Well," continued the youth, "there isn't much more that I can add. I come from a very decent family, and, as far as I know, this is the first time they've had a—criminal attached to it. I suppose the news will almost kill my mother, but that's just another penalty I'll have to suffer.

"As I understand it, there is to be an examination of the books and records within two or three days. There isn't a chance in the world that I can replace the money I took in that time—or in any time. Because, Mr. F——, I have stolen almost $150,000."

The attorney whistled.

"One hundred and fifty thousand dollars!" he repeated. "Say, you're no piker, are you? I'll say one thing for you. When you did it, you did it right. You said more than a mouthful when you stated that you had no chance of replacing the money. We must figure some other way out of the difficulty."

He tapped the desk. He looked out of the window. His mind seemed a million miles away. Suddenly he wheeled in his chair.

"Can you steal $300,000 more?" was his amazing question.

The cashier's mouth opened wide. He started to talk. He stopped. He swallowed hard. Then the words came.

"I—I think so," he replied. "In fact, I'm sure of it. Nobody suspects me at the moment, and the entire organization trusts me implicitly. I can take that much—and more—without any trouble. But why?"

The Broadway attorney, one of the most famous characters in courtroom history, waved a hand.

"Don't ask too many questions," he returned. "If you want to put yourself in my hands, you do exactly as I advise you. And I think I can get you out of this.

"There are three things you will have to do. First, you will take the $300,000 at your earliest opportunity and turn it over to me. Secondly, you will sign a statement that I will dictate. And last, you will leave for South America on the first boat after I have the money in my hands.

"Then, within three months, you will be able to return to America without the slightest trouble. It may even be sooner than that; it all depends, of course, on the way things go. Do you want to go through with it?"

The young man nodded.

"Yes," he said. "It's the only chance I have . . . ."

Exactly three days later the attorney sat before a gathering of the bank officials. He had been talking for fully half an hour. Now he leaned back and lit a cigaret.

"And there, gentlemen," he asserted easily, "is the entire story. Because he was underpaid and because he couldn't withstand temptation, that boy stole $450,000. I tell you very frankly that he has gone to Europe and that there isn't a chance that you will ever catch him.

"But if, by some great coincidence, you do catch him—then what? The money is still gone and all the jails in the world will not bring it back to you. Consider my proposition carefully and I think that common sense will show you its worth.

"Give me a signed statement that the boy will not be prosecuted and I will have him turn back $150,000 of the $450,000 that he stole. Before he left, he told me that he still had that sum in a vault. I know that, with a convincing talk on my part, I can have him return it to you.

You see how very simple my proposition really is, gentlemen? You have lost $450,000. By a move that will mean nothing to you, you can cut that loss to $300,000. Surely there can be no doubt as to which is the best way to turn.

"I'm going back to my office. You can call me at your leisure."

The following morning, the attorney wirelessed his client's boat and told him to return to America from the next port. Then he looked at the $150,000 he had added to his bank account and he smiled happily.

"Making money is a cinch," he mused. "If you know how."

PLAYS AND PLAYERS -:- -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

From today on the Nixon box office will be official greeters of seat-buyers for "Too True To Be Good," the latest opus of St. Bernard Shaw, whose bark is more savage than his bite. Produced by the Theater Guild, it will be the final play in the local subscription series of that organization, as well as the last play of the regular season in the Nixon, which may have some supplementary attractions later. Beatrice Lillie and Hope Williams are among the who's who of "Too True To Be Good."

* * *

Willie and Eugene Howard are the featured comics of George White's "Scandals." It is coming to the Alvin Easter week, but the box office crew will begin to sell the house on Munduh next. Willie and Eugene are brothers. Eugene began work on the stage first, but Willie had a natural affinity for first place, and Gene now has to be satisfied with sharing with Paul McCullough the honor of being the foremost "stooge" behind the footlights. Rudy Vallee, the eminent crooner, is featured in Mr. White's show, the latest in the "Scandals" series.

Clare Tree Major's Children's Theater will be in our midst again Saturday morning, March 26, when it will present Frances Hodgson Burnett's "The Secret Garden" in the Nixon. Like the preceding plays in the series, it will be under the local sponsorship of the Woman's City Club. Give the youngsters a new thrill—tell 'em they can go if they're good.

After Edward G. Robinson finishes "Two Seconds" he will appear in a fillim meller of Denver of mining camp days called "Silver Dollar" . . . Warner Brothers have shipped to Hollywood, for movie training, a Long Island girl, Betty Gillette, age 19, who has had neither stage nor screen experience . . . "War Correspondent," fillim with a Chinese-Japanese war background, will have Jack Holt in the title part . . . Holy Week (next), traditionally a blank in the theater, will bring a temporary halt, it is reported, in Mr. Carroll's "Vanities" in New York, the run to be resumed Easter Week . . . William A. Brady has a plan to co-star Grace George (Mrs. Brady) and Billie Burke (Mrs. Ziegfeld) next season in a play called "Mademoiselle" . . . "The Devil Passes" is in its last two weeks in New York, after which it will take to the road to play only three days in many usual week-stands . . . And the New York company of "Mourning Becomes Electra" will call it a Metropolitan run by the time April has arrived.

If you think yellow, stained, unsightly-looking teeth are natural, start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll see your mistake. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter!

Kolynos—unlike any preparation you've ever used—contains two important ingredients that clean and whiten teeth remarkably. Thus Kolynos gently cleans teeth right down to the natural white enamel and soon makes them more attractive than ever. It refreshes the mouth and stimulates the gums. Buy a tube of Kolynos today.

CORBETT'S FALL 35 YEARS AGO TODAY

TODAY MARKS THE thirty fifth anniversary of one of the most famous fights in the history of the prize ring. Thirty-five years ago this afternoon, or on St. Patrick's Day in 1897, Bob Fitzsimmons wrested the world heavyweight championship from Jim Corbett, conqueror of John L. Sullivan four and a half years earlier, by knocking him out in the fourteenth round of their battle in a wooden arena at Carson City, Nev. Dan Stuart, the promoter, was said to have gone broke in putting on the show. It drew only $22,000, of which $16,500 went to the fighters. Of this, Corbett, though defeated, received 60 per cent.

Jim Corbett

The fight was the culmination of a bitter feud. Fitzsimmons and his manager, Martin Julian, began to challenge Corbett soon after the latter knocked out Charley Mitchell in three rounds at Jacksonville, Fla., on January 25, 1894. Getting no satisfaction from repeated challenges, Fitz decided to have a personal interview with Corbett in a Philadelphia hotel.

CORBETT WAS AT breakfast when the Cornishman appeared and asked him to arrange a fight to a finish. The ensuing argument became so heated that Fitz threw a water bottle at the champion, whereupon several waiters dragged the challenger into the street.

That altercation paved the way for the Nevada match. While the men were in training they met on the road one morning and Corbett refused to shake hands. That kindled the fire of bitterness anew, and when they finally entered the ring, champion and challenger were burning up with hatred for each other. They refused to go through with the usual formality of shaking hands before the start of the first round.

THAT WAS THE first public fight at which a woman was among the spectators. Rose Julian Fitzsimmons, wife of the challenger and sister of his manager, occupied a seat near the ringside and shouted words of advice and encouragement to her husband during the progress of the battle. It was also the first fight to be advertised as the "Battle of the Century."

From the start Fitzsimmons took a scientific pasting from the faster and clever Corbett. Bob went down in the sixth round, and was covered with blood, but kept fighting like a lion, and finally in the fourteenth round turned seeming defeat into victory with a sensational knockout that marked the introduction of the solar plexus punch. While Corbett was being counted out by Referee George Siler, William A. Brady, the fallen champion's manager, claimed a foul. The fighters had to be restrained from renewing the battle when Corbett regained his feet.

THE KNOCKOUT WAS a terrific left-hand shift smash, a blow under the heart that would have splintered a plank and that paralyzed Corbett for the period of the count, yet a clipping from a newspaper published after the fight shows the wallop described as a "jab." The final round is detailed as follows: "Corbett leads, blocks. Corbett lands left jab on Fitzsimmons' head. Fitzsimmons counters with a terrible right swing on Corbett's neck and has Corbett going back for a few seconds. Fitzsimmons lands terrible left-hand jab on Corbett's stomach, and Corbett goes to his knees with a frightful look of agony on his face. The timekeepers call the seconds—one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, 10—but Corbett comes to his feet. He rushes to Fitzsimmons and endeavors to strike him. There is a wild uproar. George Siler, the referee, decides that Fitzsimmons wins. The blow that did the business landed under Corbett's heart and he collapsed. The round lasted just one minute and 45 seconds."*

Leonard Hawkins

NO GLOVEMAN WHO will participate in the first annual tournament of the Intercollegiate Boxing Conference at Carnegie Tech gym tomorrow and Saturday nights possesses a finer record than Leonard Hawkins, rugged right-heavyweight of the West Virginia squad. The big fellow, who is captain of the Mountaineer boxers in this his senior and final year, boxed in the heavyweight division until this season.

Then the colleges abandoned that classification, inserted the 165-pound class, and made the 175-pound division the heaviest of the college ratings. However, Hawkins has usually made the weight limit in the 175-pound class with ease, and to prove that it has not weakened him he has smashed his way through an unbroken season. West Virginia has had an exceptionally heavy schedule, and Hawkins has won 10 bouts without a setback.

HAWKINS HAILS FROM Lumberport, a hamlet near Morgantown, and until Eddie Wachenuse, Mountaineer coach, took him in tow, he had never had the gloves on. Now he is an odds-on favorite to cop the 175-pound individual championship here, thus scoring heavily for his team in its quest of the point-scoring trophy.

Incidentally, Tom Waldron, of Carnegie Tech, alone stands between Hawkins and the title, for Kubacki, the Bucknell entrant in this division, is hardly experienced enough nor heavy enough to go to the finals, according to word from Lewisburg.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT Babe Ruth had signed a one-year contract calling for the compromise salary of $75,000, the same sum paid annually to the President of the United States, caused no surprise among experienced fans, as they had figured sure there would be nothing to the holdout after Ruth and Col. Ruppert got together, and that there wasn't a chance in the world the Babe would remain unsigned many hours after the start of the Yankees' exhibition trip.

RUTH IS SWINGING along toward the million mark in his unparalleled baseball earnings. At the end of the 1932 season, without reckoning his world series or piece-money possibilities, he will have taken out of the game $815,177 since he signed his first professional contract with Baltimore in 1914 at a salary of $600.

The Babe's straight salary figures by next fall will have totaled $733,900. In addition to this he has received $58,577 in world series cuts, and $2,500 in place money. At that, it can't be said that he has been overpaid. He brings it all in at the gate, and more.

The ninety-fourth running of England's Grand National Steeplechase over the Aintree course at Liverpool tomorrow will hold additional interest for Pittsburgh because of the presence again in the field of two locally owned horses.

For the third time, R. K. Mellon will start his famous pair of jumpers, Alike and Glangesia. The former fell in the runnings of 1930 and 1931, while Glangesia finished fourth in 1930 and seventh in 1931.

R. K. Mellon

THE GRAND NATIONAL is the most difficult and dangerous horse race in the world, the total of 30 jumps before the finish of the grind of 4 miles 856 yards being so extremely tough and hazardous that it is seldom more than half a dozen horses complete the test. The odds are 5 to 1 against any starter finishing. In 1928 only two finished out of 42 starters. The only American bred horse ever to take the prize was Rubio in 1908. Three former winners, Gregalach, Shaun Goilin and Grakle, will start again tomorrow. Among the American starters will be a son of the great Man o'War, Sea Soldier, entered for a Chicago syndicate by Austin H. Niblack, of that city.

TEAMS BATTLE FOR RIGHT TO PLAY FINAL

Probable Lineup

Charleroi		New Kensington
J. Reeves	F	Marino
Stevenson	F	Walaitis
Kostolansky	C	Dayoub
Hugus	G	Sipek
Robison	G	Tompkins

By JULIUS LEVIN

New Kensington, champion of Section I, and Charleroi, champion of Section V, will be battling for the right to enter the final round of the twentieth annual W. P. I. A. L. basketball eliminator series tonight when they clash in the first semi-final contest in the Pitt Stadium pavilion.

Fred Hugus

The winner earns the right to engage the winner of the Ford City-Braddock game, scheduled tomorrow night, in the final round next Tuesday evening in the Pitt Stadium pavilion.

IMPRESSIVE TEAMS

The contest tonight brings together two quintets that have made impressive showings in the early rounds of the tournament and picking a winner is a hazardous task. Dope in the tournament so far has been worthless as one favorite after another has fallen by the wayside.

Both teams tonight are competing in their third games of the tournament. In their previous appearances the New Kensington passers, coached by Carl Glock, disposed of a powerful quintet in Sewickley Township, champion of Section XII, in a second round duel, 32-29, and East Pike Run, champion of Section XIII, in the quarter finals, 33-18.

Charleroi, coached by Steve Stepanian, likewise had to show its best form to reach the semi-finals. The Section V champions squeezed out an 18-17 triumph over Swissvale, champion of Section XI, in the second round and then turned in the best feat of the tournament by elimination Homestead favorite to win the title in an overtime quarter final engagement, 27-24.

LINEUPS INTACT

Both Coaches Stepanian and Glock have molded together smooth-working floor machines that have clicked to perfection and followers of the tournament are looking forward to a brilliant duel tonight. Johnny Reeves and Stevenson will be at the forwards for Charleroi, Joe Kostolansky, the best center in the tournament to date, will be at that post, and Fred Hugus and Robison at the guard position.

Coach Glock is expected to counter with Walaitis and Marino at forward, Babe Dayoub at center and Rusek and Tompkins at the guards.

Charleroi and New Kensington have been well supported in the tournament so far and another bumper crowd is expected to pack the stadium pavilion tonight. New Kensington will be staking all hopes for its second W. P. I. A. L. title in the battle with Charleroi. The last time the valley passers won the league crown was in 1930. Charleroi never has won the W. P. I. A. L. crown and if the Cougars are successful in winning tonight their chances of copping their first championship are excellent.

Huntingdon Wins, To Play Fifth Ave.

ALTOONA, Pa., March 17.—(AP.)—Huntingdon defeated Johnstown and won the District No. 6 P. I. A. L. title last night. The score was 27 to 22. The winner meets Fifth Avenue High, of Pittsburgh, District No. 8 champions, in Altoona, Saturday night.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE U. S. SENATOR WHO WAS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE—In 1910, the election of the members of the United States Senate was not yet vested in the peoples of the several states. Instead, the U. S. Senators were elected by their State Legislature for a term of six years, one-third retiring every two years. In January, 1911, the newly elected Legislature of Montana met and proceeded to elect a Senator to succeed U. S. Senator Carter. A ballot was taken daily for 60 days, during the entire duration of the session. Thursday, March 2, 1911, was to be the last day of the session. The balloting having continued all day with a negative result, the Legislature was about to adjourn sine die when District Judge Henry L. Myers' name was put up at the psychological moment and he was elected by the unanimous vote of the Democratic majority. Judge Myers, who thus was elected to the United States Senate while he was completely unaware that he was even a candidate, served 12 years, being re-elected for a full term in 1916.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

LAST NIGHT'S RESULT

*Chicago	1—Detroit 1

*Overtime tie.

By CARL W. SHATTO

The Detroit Olympics undoubtedly will clinch a place in the International Hockey League title play-offs at the expense of Pittsburgh, but the Yellow Jackets are determined that the Michiganders shall not add insult to injury by doing the clinching in their game at Duquesne Garden tonight.

A Detroit victory tonight will erase even the feeble mathematical chance which the Canary Shirts have of overtaking the Olympics in the race. A Pittsburgh triumph will keep the visitors on the anxious seat for at least one more game. Detroit needs to win only one decision in five starts to slam the play-off door in the Jackets' collective face.

ROMNES IN "TUNE-UP"

Not that there is any particular comfort in the recollection, but it was the Jackets who kept the Olympics out of the title series last season. These teams can go at it with honors even next fall.

At that, tonight's duel will be something of a tune-up for a title series for one of the Jackets—Doc Romnes, star wing who will be in the Chicago lineup when the Hawks battle for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world championship. Doc will be in the Pittsburgh lineup tonight, and will remain here for the Reidmen's two concluding struggles—with Buffalo on Saturday, and Cleveland on Friday of next week.

Because of a shoulder injury which has left his right arm partially paralyzed, Goalie Sonny Boy Baxter will be on the sidelines and Goalie Abbie Cox will be in the Pittsburgh cage. The Olympics know just as well as do local fans that Abbie knows what this goal tending is all about, and they can't see where this lineup change greatly enhances their victory chances.

STARS MENACE CHANCES

While keeping their telescopes trained on the play-offs, the Jackets appear to have overlooked the fact that the Syracuse Stars are sneaking up from the rear. Unless they win tonight, the Reidmen should make ready for a drop from fifth to sixth place in the standings. The Stars are only one game back of the locals, and they will have three chances to make up this deficit. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh		Detroit
Cox	G	Vezina
Fraser	D	Rowbotham
Boyer	D	Kendall
Fields		Stewart
Gregg	W	Goldsworthy
Romnes	W	Conacher

Spares—Pittsburgh, Marin, Packham, Robinson, Dunning, Barton, Lovejoy. Detroit, Hinchcliffe, Hay, Schmidt, Richards, Gillis, Starek, Gagne, Clark.

WINDSOR ADVANCES

WINDSOR, Ont., March 17.—(AP.)—Johnny Gallagher's solo goal late in the third period gave the Windsor Bulldogs a 3-to-2 victory over the Syracuse Stars in a tight International League hockey game last night.

Yanks Beat Braves Ruth in Lineup

ST. PETERSBURG, March 17.—(AP.)—With Babe Ruth playing his first exhibition game of the season, the New York Yankees came from behind to defeat the Boston Braves, 8 to 5, in 11 innings yesterday. Frank Crosetti, Pacific Coast rookie, led the Yankees' attack, however, coming through with a single, a double and a triple. The Babe failed to get a hit.

GRAKLE FAVORED TOMORROW

LONDON, March 17.—(AP.)—A comparatively small but select field of jumpers was indicated for the 1932 running of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, near Liverpool, tomorrow.

C. R. Taylor's Grakle, last year's winner, held a firm favorite in the latest betting at 8 to 1. The probable field, with jockeys and latest betting odds, follow:

Estate Duty, Lieut.-Col. Walter Guinness' 4-year-old colt, won the Liverpool Spring Cup, second of the big flat racing handicaps, by a length from H. Eve's Venturer. Thirteen ran the mile, two furlongs, 170 yards.

Estate Duty and Venturer were 10 to 1 in the betting.

CHICAGO, March 17.—(AP.)—The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has recommended that five colleges be dropped from the accredited list in the report of the Board of Review. They were:

Ouachita College, Arkadelphia, Ark., because of "financial standards and undesirable athletic conditions."

College of Emporia, Emporia, Kan., because of failure to meet financial standards.

Penn College, Oskaloosa, Ia., because of financial standards.

New Mexico Normal University, Las Vegas, N. M., because of undesirable athletic conditions.

A'S WIN FINALE FROM CARDS

BRADENTON, Pa., March 17.—(AP.)—Max Bishop, the last man at bat in the 1931 world series, couldn't puncture the St. Louis defense last October, but he came through yesterday with a booming single while the bases were full in the sixth inning and clinched the final game for the spring series between the Athletics and Cardinals.

The Athletics, aided and abetted by the loose fielding and pitching of the world champions, won by 6 to 3. The Cardinals' only victory was in the 10-inning game that opened the series a fortnight ago in Miami. The score:

GULFPORT, Miss., March 17.—I would give you the dope on the big league teams that are training in California, only I can't see through the Rocky Mountains with my telescope.

Nick Altrock

I don't know what kind of weather they've been getting out on the Pacific slope, but if it's been as chilly as the South this season, we will all be heading for Honduras next spring.

Being here in Mississippi, I am impartial whether Florida or California is best for training. The orange juice in both places tastes about the same, so it all depends on the gin. Personally, I would rather train in Milwaukee, preferably in a back room with the boys.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—Although it is a bit early to make predictions, the actions of the Pirate hurlers in the games played to date on the exhibition tour has presaged the fact that the Buccos are going to be quite strong in the hurling department this season.

At least, this is the impression one receives after having watched the Corsairs since they arrived at the Paso Robles training camp.

Last season the Bucs were notably weak on the mound, and Gibson, who always has been a firm believer of conditioning first, may have seemed a rather hard task-master as he put his squad through the paces at Paso Robles, but today he has his staff in the best of shape and ready for the grind.

FRENCH HURLS WELL

Larry French, who has been going great guns in the games he has pitched, is far advanced at the present time. Larry hurled seven frames against the Missions yesterday and let them down with four hits, although the Pirates were defeated, 2 to 1, in 10 innings.

Last Sunday French pitched the last four innings of the morning game against Oakland, and the best the Oak batters could garner off his left-handed offerings were two hits.

Gibson has taken special pains with his mound staff and has not asked his hurlers to work unless they were raring and absolutely ready for duty.

For this reason he has not called upon Ray Kremer in the exhibition series with the Missions until today. Ray came up with a slight cold in the final stages of the stay at Paso Robles and the Pirate skipper allowed him plenty of time to rid himself of his ailment.

LLOYD TAKES REST

Lloyd Waner is the lone player on the ailing list at the present time and Lloyd suffered a slight cold in his throwing arm, which has caused him to take things easy. He was not in the lineup against the Missions yesterday, due to the frigid weather.

The Missions evened the series with the Pirates in a closely contested game. Weather conditions were ideal for anything but baseball, a damp, cold fog, supplemented by a drizzle, which fell throughout the game, made it difficult to play baseball.

The same teams meet today in the third game of the series. Glenn Spencer and Kremer are the selections for the mound work for the Pirates.

A total of 168 teams participated.

Post 79, of St. Mary's, W. Va., scored 1,600 to finish seventeenth, and C. A. Deems, of St. Mary's, was twenty-fifth in the individual race with a score of 280.

NEVILLE UNDEFEATED

In winning the Allegheny County championship, the Neville Island Junior High School quintet established the unusual record of playing through a basketball season without suffering a defeat. Prior to the championship it competed in 20 games, a majority of which were played on the floors of opponents. The Neville Island team was one of the most active during the season, with Mike Pavlick, Eddie Hrin, Gerald Bortle, Lawrence Berry and Steve Babick.

SCHOOL MEET OFF

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 17.—An announcement has been made by officials of the Washington County Interscholastic Athletic Association track and field games, one of the oldest annual events of the district, to abandon this year's meet because of lack of sufficient funds and an apparent lack of interest by competing schools.

Sport Vignettes

"He throws too many hooks. He's a good boxer, but he'll have to overcome this fault." . . . That's Tommy Ryan's estimate of his kid brother, Tony Marino, Duquesne flyweight, who won another fight at the Garden last Monday . . . It was only the second time Ryan had seen Tony fight as a pro, and, being his brother, he perhaps has a right to be his severest critic . . . Reed Brown, Tony's manager, who fought Tommy when both were battling around here, comes to Tony's defense by saying the little fellow is so fast and feints so well that no one is stopping those hooks, or beating him to the punch on them, either, so what of it?

Signs of the depression are to be found in the decreased attendance at the W. P. I. A. L. basketball series this year . . . And the bowling alley owners say business is nothing to brag about . . . Very few dates remain on the Motor Square Garden boxing calendar before the curtain is rung down on the indoor season . . . Cards are slated there next Monday and the following Monday, and there will be no bouts on April 4 because of the General Motors show . . . A boxing program is billed for April 11, and then there will be a shutdown because of the food show until the first Monday in May . . . The season will be closed the second or third week in May.

Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt basketball coach, takes pen in hand to advise this department that his Panthers closed their season last Saturday night . . . Thanks, Doc—for closing the season and also for letting us know about it . . . You always were a pal . . . The San Francisco Seals, who are playing the Pirates in those exhibition games on the coast, are not related to our Trained Seals, and no responsibility for their defeats is assumed here.

"Cuttings" from Boston newspapers reveal the fact that some of the critics there did not agree with the decision in favor of Johnny Indrisano over Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, recently . . . The pair will meet in a title bout as a result of the verdict.

BOXERS GATHER FOR COLLEGE TOURNEY

By JESS CARVER

This chap Mario Rubbo, with a first name that would do credit to a poet, who boxes for old Pitt and will box in the inaugural championship tournament of the Intercollegiate Boxing Conference at Carnegie Tech tomorrow and Saturday nights, has a swell chance to wind up with the 145-pound championship. In fact, the Panther scrapper, essentially a puncher, looms as the favorite in the division.

Mario Rubbo

Rubbo, who hits hard with both mitts, especially with his right, has a very creditable record. He has been beaten twice by Hamilton, West Virginia's 135-pounder, but knocked out Tiffany, West Point's star, beat his man at Temple and lost a close decision to Lewis, of Penn State, the intercollegiate champion. Last week he went out of his class and won by a technical knockout over Bert Pounsey, Tech's husky footballer.

The Temple and Bucknell squads are expected in the city tonight. Tomorrow, at noon, the coaches and officials of the tourney will gather at a luncheon at Webster Hall, and afterward the boxers will weigh in and the draw will be made.

Temple's well-balanced squad, the strongest numerically in the tourney, five men, rules the first choice to win the team championship, and the Owl boxers likely will carry off more than their share of individual titles. West Virginia, of course, with ringmen of the class of Hamilton, Hawkins, Latham and Neely, cannot be counted out. Neely, by the way, may turn out to be Rubbo's toughest opponent. The other entries in the 145-pound class include Carr, of Tech, and Moore, of Duquesne.

Capt. Leonard Hawkins, of the West Virginia boxing team, who will seek the Intercollegiate Boxing Conference title in the 115-pound class in the Conference's tournament at Carnegie Tech tomorrow and Saturday, won himself 10 consecutive victories in dual meets this year. He is a bruising hitter, boxes cleverly and might have gone through the season without taking a licking if he hadn't had to pair his dukes up with Jeff Burke, the ineligible Carnegie Techer.

About the only unbeaten scrapper who'll compete in the tournament is Al Demonowitz, Wash.-Jeff's 145-pounder. Demonowitz hasn't been taken all season, and has at least an even chance to wind up with the title.

The officials, ushers and whatnot at the Conference tourney will show up both tomorrow and Saturday evenings with their dinner clothes on; dinner clothes in this case meaning hurdles. It will be a treat to seek Monks Sample and Red Stewart in their soup-and-fish, and 10 to 1, someone will step up to Max Hannum and order a bowl of clam chowder. Personally, green turtle soup will do.

SALERNO BEATS TIGER WEST AT MOOSE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Guy Salerno, of Los Angeles, turned in his fourth victory in five starts here last night when he added Tiger Joe West, local middleweight, to his list of victims in the 10-round main bout before a fair-sized crowd at the Moose Temple.

Salerno's other victories were technical knockouts over Jocko Walters in his debut and over Jimmy Taylor, of Cleveland, and an eight-round win over K. O. Kelley, Akron Negro. In between these battles, he dropped a 10-round decision to George Courtney.

Fighting only in spurts last night, Guy just missed knocking out West in the third round when he sent him pitching into the ropes with a right to the jaw, the Tiger slipping to his knees and holding to the strands until the count of nine. Guy followed up the advantage and had West in bad shape at the bell.

WINNER'S EYE CUT

This was the only knockdown of the battle, although both went down together at the start of the ninth round and were counted over. As a result of his desultory tactics, Salerno did not win by any too wide a margin. He permitted West to force the fighting and take the first two rounds, won the third on the knockdown, lagged and let West hold his own in the fourth and dropped the fifth, and then rallied to win the next three rounds, but lost the ninth, in which he was outslugged, and wound up with a cut on his left eye.

West might have evened it up with a strong finish in the tenth round, but Salerno put on speed and also punched well and forced the Tiger to hold on before the final bell. The decision was unanimous in Salerno's favor, but West deserved credit for putting up the fight he did after being so dangerously near a knockout.

Salerno weighed 156½ pounds and West 160½.

HARRIS STOPS TRACY

The feature of the night was provided by Harry Harris, of Bellaire, O., the "ringer" in looks for Gene Tunney, when he knocked Jack Tracy, local Negro puncher, cold with a right to the jaw near the end of the fourth round, after previously flooring Tracy for nine with a similar blow.

Harris, looking in trimmer condition than he has in any of his latter bouts here, at 158¾ pounds, against 161½ for Tracy, won from the start, outboxing and outpunching his man, who himself is a dangerous right-hand hitter. He had Tracy out on his feet at the end of the second round and was dropped for no count as he moved into a surprise right by Tracy when he went out to finish the Negro at the bell in the third. The finish was as clean-cut a knockout as the fans have seen here in many moons, and they gave Harris an ovation.

U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, 132½, came from behind in the third round to outgeneral and outfight Leon Jendrasiak, Grand Rapids southpaw, 127¾, in the six-round second bout, decided by the referee's decision, and Johnny Cataline, of Charleston, W. Va., 125, bested Johnny Warner, of Clairton, 128½, in the six-round opener.

WALLACE TO BOX WILSON

The crowd stood in silence for 10 seconds before the semi-final as a token of respect for the memory of Dr. S. I. Meyers, the Meyers Bowl promoter, who died on Monday. It was announced Frankie Wallace, of Cleveland, and Jackie Wilson, of the East End, will box the main bout at the Moose Temple next Wednesday night.

Eddie Kennedy refereed all bouts and the judges were Freddie Lux and Jock Simco. Tommy Grant was the timer and Harry Klaas the announcer.

Referees and judges will meet in the office of the State Athletic Commission this afternoon to discuss the rules and other problems.

Billy Brent has been substituted for Jimmy Moore as the opponent of Lee Skala, Donora middleweight, in the eight-round semi-final at the Kappan Arena tomorrow night. VERONA SIGNS PILOT

BILL SCHULTIES TO BE PLAYING MANAGER

By TOM BIRKS

Big Bill Schulties former Homewood catcher in the County and City leagues will be the playing manager of the Verona club in the Greater Pittsburgh League it was learned today. Schulties a resident of Verona and very popular with fans there will have charge of the team catching in a manner ity of league games as well.

One of the real veterans on local sandlots and a likeable fellow, he should make good in the managerial ranks. His connections with the Harmarville Consumers team should bring him a big following from the other side of the river.

TWO LEAGUES MEET

Anticipating the closing of the circuits for the season the City and Greater Pittsburgh baseball leagues convene this evening. The City circuit is having its confab at Books and the Greater Pittsburgh loop at the field house of Edgewood High.

At the City League session with President Harry Yerx in the chair and Secretary Sweenes on hand the managers probably will elect a new treasurer to replace Fred Alger, who owing to business pressure is severing his connections with the loop.

Dormont the defending champion, Homewood, Books, J. L. Thomas and North Side Civics are all set to go and since eight clubs appear to be out of the question, the managers probably will vote a sixth team into the loop and set the stage for the schedule makers.

EDGEWOOD SET

The Greater Pittsburgh League has six aggregations in line. Edgewood, Wilkinsburg Murs Immaculate Heart, Iroquois, Verona and Braddock Klabans. A number of teams including Swissvale, the Griffins, Wilkinsburg Millikins, Westinghouse Alumni and Springdale will attend the meeting.

Edgewood apparently is going to have another good club. Manager Pickett has signed Tom McCarter captain and third baseman, Kenny Henderson, a pitcher, and Jackson, an outfielder.

Scranton Advances In Catholic Tourney

CHICAGO, March 17.—(AP)—St. Thomas of Scranton, Pa., rushed into the second round of the national Catholic high school basketball championship today by romping over Catholic High of Little Rock, Ark., 45 to 12.

St. Mel, of Chicago, defeated Cretin of St. Paul, Minn., 25 to 19.

De La Salle of Minneapolis the defending champion, was eliminated by Catholic High of Washington, Ind., 33-14, in the first game of the first round last night.

Continue Sports, College Heads Say

Local college athletic heads are not in favor of curtailing or abandoning their sports at this time, due to conditions, it was revealed in the answers to the leading question of a forum on collegiate athletics featuring the weekly session of the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over station WCAE last night.

The speakers were W. Don Harrison, athletic director of the University of Pittsburgh, Clarence Overend, graduate athletic manager at Carnegie Tech, and John D. Holahan, graduate athletic manager of Duquesne University, with Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, acting as master of ceremonies in conducting the quiz.

Eight pertinent questions in all were answered by all three guest speakers.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Resist — Local Market Narrow

STOCKS RESIST DURING QUIET SESSION

List Eases in Spots in Early Trading, but Later Shows Fair Recovery

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP.)—Selling pressure was firmly resisted in another quiet session of the stock market today.

The list eased in spots in the early trading, particularly in the rails, but selling failed to make much headway, and publication of a favorable income report for February by Chesapeake and Ohio brought a fair recovery after mid-day.

After sagging more than a point to a new low, Chesapeake and Ohio rallied to sell about a point higher. Union Pacific recovered a 2-point loss, and Santa Fe converted an early loss into a 3-point gain. Losses of a point or so in United States Steel and American Can were recovered, and American Telephone turned upward after getting down 2 points. American Tobacco "B" and Allied Chemical pushed up a point or more. General Refractories was a soft spot in the specialties, losing 3 points. American Typefounders preferred lost a couple of points, on omission of the dividend.

Chesapeake and Ohio was the first important railroad to report its February net income. Its showing of $1,470,744 was substantially better than the $1,196,638 reported for January, and was better than February of last year, when net was $1,165,612. This is the first report to reflect the 10 per cent wage reduction, and was apparently substantially better than expected. This stock had been under considerable pressure lately.

Brokerage quarters have largely been inclined to regard the market outlook as considerably dimmed by the recent penetration of new low ground by General Motors and some of the rails. Some market theorists have felt that this indicated that a further testing of the market's triple bottom registered in the past three months might be necessary to provide a base for a fresh advance. It is acknowledged however, that the improvement in the banking situation has largely eliminated the dangers of necessitous liquidation, and recent increases in the short interest has probably strengthened the market's technical position.

Wall Street manifested considerable interest in the new Glass banking bill as introduced in the Senate, but advices indicating sharp disagreement over the measure in the Banking and Currency Committee, indicating that final action on it may be considerably delayed, robbed it of any market influence. Banking quarters described the new bill as less "dealitonary" than the previous one.

ENGLISH BANK RATE CUT

LONDON, March 17.—(AP.)—The Bank of England reduced its discount rate today from 4 to 3½ per cent.

The decision of the bank authorities surprised the market which was not prepared for further reduction after the two recent declines.

The lower bank rate will assist the government in its conversion plan for public obligations.

The lower bank rate will bring money rates nearer those of the principal foreign centers.

Montagu Norman was renominated for governorship of the bank for the thirteenth consecutive term.

Despite the tonic effect of the bank rate cut, advices from the continent caused stocks on the London stock exchange to close irregularly today.

Sweden to Operate Kreuger Properties

STOCKHOLM, March 17.—(INS.)—The Swedish government plans to take over the Boliden Mining Company, one of the concerns operated by the late Ivar Kreuger, a member of the Swedish Riksbank announced today.

Other Kreuger interests also are expected to be assimilated by the government. With the stock exchange still closed, Kreuger shares were traded in unofficially today. They were extremely weak at the outset, but gained strength as the day progressed.

Mail Order House To Sell Property

WASHINGTON, March 17.—National Bellas Hess has called a special meeting of stockholders for April 4 to consider plans for sale of its various properties. The mail order business was discontinued on March 1. Inventories are being liquidated and are now down to $1,000,000 cost value. There has been paid off a total of $2,450,000 accounts payable, leaving a balance of $175,000.

Great Northern Buys Bus Shares

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The Great Northern Railway through a subsidiary, the Dakota and Great Northern Townside Company, has acquired 70,000 shares of the Pacific Greyhound Corporation, representing a one-sixth interest in the corporation. This is equivalent to an interest half as large as that now owned by the Southern Pacific.

Steel Prices.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Steel prices unchanged.

AID TO FARMER IMPORTANT TO RECOVERY

Restoration of Agrarian Purchasing Power Needed To Spur City Industries

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, March 17.—Any fundamental program for economic relief through restoring disturbed human relationships cannot overlook the farmer.

Business has been suffering from impairment of purchasing power, and as a class the farmer has been especially hard hit. His income has not only shrunken greatly in dollars and cents, but it has also declined relatively as compared with that of the city worker. The pauperization of the farmer restricts his buying power and causes factories to shut down and to turn additional industrial workers out of employment.

Mr. Rukeyser

As a supplement to acceleration of public works for the reemployment of industrial workers it is also desirable to devise a plan for restoring the relative financial strength to agrarians. Numerous business executives, who were once loath to see anything unofficial done, now are wondering whether something cannot be learned from the manner in which France and Germany have met the problem.

Such proposals entail more or less price fixing for cereals and cotton consumed in the United States, and dumping of the surplus in world markets at the prevailing international price. Before such remedial proposals are discarded, it should be borne in mind that agricultural states will be unable to get enough out of taxation to meet their debt service if existing subnormal farm incomes become the new normal.

Instead of continuing the age-long struggle between the city worker and the farmer, it is important to stress their inter-dependence. Lack of buying power on the farms spells unemployment among factory workers.

In the restoration of a new equilibrium in business, there is no substitute for a return of buying power to the unemployed and to the underpaid on farms and in cities. The goal of reconstruction should be to restore disrupted human relationships.

To the extent that governmental measures fail to meet this objective, they seem destined to prove only temporary stimulants which fail to solve the basic economic riddle of restoring economic balance.

Motor Industry Denoted As Stumbling Block In Steel Progress

The steel trade summaries might be said to have put their finger on the real stumbling block to improvement in the motor industry. It is generally known that the automobile industry as a whole has been more or less inclined to mark time while awaiting the appearance of the new Ford product. The Iron Age, commenting on the absence of any big Ford orders thus far, declares that sluggishness of the big independent in getting into volume production has slowed up other automobile manufacturers to such an extent that steel mill schedules have been adversely affected. Expansion of takings of miscellaneous consumers has not taken up the slack of important buying by big users, a factor which is reflected in a drop of 2 per cent to 25 per cent in operations in the industry. The only real bright spot is the gradual progress toward price stabilization.

Tax returns are due to hold the center of financial interest over the next few days and it is evident that the figures are not going to make the most pleasant sort of reading. The first returns indicate clearly that the net result will be quite disappointing, and will reveal the necessity for the new tax measure, providing for substantially greater revenues if the national budget is to be balanced on schedule.

Omission of the Baltimore and Ohio preferred dividend was not unexpected in view of the steady decline in the price of the stock during the past few weeks, from its 1932 high of 41. Over the last few days it has been selling around 22 with no great amount of support evident. This is the first omission of a preferred dividend by Baltimore and Ohio since the road came out of reorganization in 1899. The common dividend was omitted in December, 1931. In suspending dividends on its senior issue the Baltimore and Ohio has taken the same step as Illinois Central and St. Louis-San Francisco, both of which ceased preferred stock payments this year because of the severe slump in earnings.

Rio Grande Oil Company's $5,000,000 loan outstanding at the beginning of the year had been reduced to $3,000,000 by December 31. Since that time, an additional $800,000 has been paid off, reducing the loan to $2,200,000 in round figures. If present plans materialize it is likely that by August this year, the loan will have been reduced to $1,000,000, or less.

In view of restricted buying and current price trends some surprise has been occasioned by the recent action of two or three automobile manufacturers in raising prices on certain models. In the motor trade these price adjustments are attributed to the fact that most manufacturers are paying just a little more for materials than the distress prices of the last quarter of 1931.

Economists are commenting on the relative stability of earnings of General Foods during the period of business depression. This is attributed to the necessitous character of the products controlled as well as the wide diversification of output. The stock frequently has been one of the favorites in the food group when firmness has appeared.

Armstrong Cork Plan Approved

LANCASTER, Pa., March 17.—Stockholders of the Armstrong Cork Company have approved an employe-stockholder benefit plan and elected five directors to succeed five whose resignations were announced.

The company agreed to purchase between March 1, 1934, and March 1, 1937, at $25 per share on request employe-owned stock held by banks as collateral for loans up to 24,000 shares in all. The plan affects 144 employes.

Holding Company To Meet Interest

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—Wall street hears that the American & Foreign Power Company has been able to obtain ample funds to meet interest requirements on its 5 per cent debentures in spite of the restriction placed upon exportation of currencies from countries in which its subsidiaries operate. This was the reason given by the company for the recent omission of preferred dividends.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Lily Lou Compelled to Travel Alone During First Day in France

CHAPTER XXXVII

The ship did not sink. It cut its way across the gray Atlantic, in the teeth of a gale that sent white spray high as the smokestacks, and shook the ship to its very timbers.

Madame Nahlman stayed in the stateroom for two days, having all her meals sent up. She had Lily Lou's meals sent up too, but Lily Lou could not eat. As Nahlman predicted, she was sick.

At first she worried that all this would annoy the prima donna, they sharing the same cabin.

But no. It amused her. "I don't want to seem cruel," she said sometimes, eyeing poor greenish Lily Lou with ill concealed gusto, "but it's so funny. I haven't laughed like this for 10 years, not since—but this is not the time. Some day perhaps I shall tell you, when the babe is safely in the arms of a bonne. We shall have a nice French one, with streamers and petticoats. I shall get you the most crocheted petticoated bonne in all France. Wait. Then we shall laugh, you and I together, and laugh and laugh—"

SINGER IS KIND

Nita Nahlman did not wait. She laughed now. Loud and long. And at sight of her with her longish hennaed hair flying and her bright blue eyes burning in her sallow leathery face there were times when Lily Lou was almost afraid of her. There was something hardly sane.

But she was so kind. Even when her familiarities, her easy discussions of things that Lily Lou had been brought up to think one didn't discuss, her direct, embarrassing questions were hardest to bear, you were conscious of her kindness, her genuine good will back of it . . . and what could you do?

Not that Madame Nahlman spent much time in the cabin after the second day out. It amused her to rig herself up in her most garish costumes, and sit for hours in the smoking room, sipping cointreau, playing bridge at 10 cents a point.

The sight of her turbaned head wrapped in silver or green brocade, and her huge bulk swathed in trailing chiffon became almost as familiar as Maxine Rochan's shock of brown hair and spotted baby-blue bathrobe.

The truth was that Lily Lou, who had been unused to change, had had so much of it in the last six months that she was beginning to accept it as a perfectly natural part of life.

ARRIVE IN ENGLAND

There was the landing at Liverpool, a sort of spotless town, all laid out in orderly buildings, all as much alike as possible, and lunch in a big and rather cheerless hotel with Mme. Nahlman inclined to pace the floor and buttonhole clerks and managers because there was no mail for her, and someone who was supposed to have met her had failed to arrive.

Grumbling, she decided to go back to the station. There was a short ride through green English country, in one of those queer European trains with seats for six in a compartment, and a corridor along one side. Then London. A London of immense, stone station, decorative British policemen majestically ordering a very British traffic, a cold, damp rain, and then two nights in a rather chilly hotel. During that time she saw Mme. Nahlman, whose room was on another floor, just once.

At that time she kissed Lily Lou fondly, called her her own darling little companion, and told her that she couldn't have borne two days in this frightful, depressing place without her. Then she disappeared, not to appear again until it was time to take the train for Southampton and then a night boat to Le Havre where a certain Mademoiselle Susanne Coin, maid and companion, was to be picked up.

TRAVELS ALONE

Then she appeared only long enough to tell Lily Lou to go on alone, she had decided to make the Folkstone-Bologne crossing after all, and would meet her in Paris at the Ritz day after tomorrow, and here's 10 pounds, dear, this should do you, and don't forget to look for Susanne when the boat docks at La Havre. She's tall, fair, rather English type. You can't miss her—she speaks English—

A little bewildered, a little thrilled to be traveling alone, Lily Lou started, somewhat hampered by all of Nahlman's luggage, as well as her own.

At the boat there was some misunderstanding about her reservation. Mme. Nahlman had canceled . . . . no, there was nothing for Miss Lansing. Sorry, but the staterooms were all engaged. However, she could have a berth in the women's cabin.

After a look at the women's cabin, a stuffy, dismal looking place, overcrowded already, she climbed up on deck and sat there wrapped in blankets until the boat started. Then seasick again, she groped her way back to the cabin she had despised before and cast herself down on top of one of the vacant berths.

In the morning the ship was anchored at the pier on the French side, and the channel looked calm as a millpond. The air was fresh and clean, the sky was blue. The night was just a bad dream.

Bustle of leaving. Customs. Officials. But no Susanne Coin. Lily Lou missed the Paris train, waiting and looking for her. An English-speaking gentleman, who turned out to be awaiting a party of tourists whom he was going to guide through Paris and on to Marseilles, where someone else would whisk them on to Algiers, advised Lily Lou to go over to a hotel within walking distance of the boat, and have some breakfast.

In the lobby an immense wooden bowl, covered with wire netting, attracted her eye. It proved to contain a quantity of lettuce leaves, and hundreds of small black snails, contentedly nibbling.

A NEW FRIEND

She decided against breakfast. Went out and stood on the street in front of the hotel. Two French sailors, their red-pomponed blue caps set on at a rakish angle, paused in their promenade to eye her with interest.

She went back into the hotel. She was hungry, anyway.

In the dining room, sipping chocolate and reading a newspaper, she saw a pleasant faced blonde young woman who might answer to her description of Susanne Coin.

It was Susanne, and she was delighted to learn that she would have company to Paris, and aghast to think that she had not met the boat, but she had not known that Miss Lansing would be on it!

Lily Lou didn't argue the point. She was getting used to people making a fuss over you one minute and forgetting you the next.

So Susanne had another cup of chocolate with Lily Lou. "Never try to drink French coffee, it's vile," she advised her, countermanding Lily Lou's request for coffee.

Acquiescent as usual, Lily Lou drank the chocolate, and let her new friend take charge of the luggage. On the train they had a compartment all to themselves and Susanne took off her hat and her blue coat, and slipped out of her frivolous high-heeled shoes, gratefully twisting her toes, an action which Lily Lou was to associate forever with France. French travelers, it seemed, removed their shoes as naturally and quickly as they did their hats.

"I am Swiss. And you?"

"American. I came from the States with Madame Nahlman, to study."

"Ah, yes, from New York. I have a sister there. She is married . . ."

Susanne was off on a long, detailed history of her sister, her sister's health, and her husband.

Lily Lou let her talk. She thought about London and the few things she had managed to see. St. Paul's, Westminster, Bond street. The parliament buildings. And that was about all.

And now she was in France, on a French train, on her way to Paris.

Susanne had stopped talking about her sister. She was saying that since madame would not arrive until Friday, she thought she'd go on to visit another sister at Passy, and she'd be at the Ritz in time to unpack for madame.

And should I go on to the Ritz? Or would it be better if I went somewhere less expensive?"

Susanne Coin eyed her companion speculatively. The black coat that did not fit very well, the ringless hands, the inexpensive hat.

"There are cheaper places. You might go to the Grand Hotel Gissy, that's cheap," she said. "I knew an English woman who stayed there once."

They shook hands.

She was just the acquaintance of a few hours, but Lily Lou felt very much alone when she went off with a light-hearted wave of a yellow gloved hand.

"Grand Hotel Gissy," she told the whiskered and taciturn taxi-driver into whose ramshackle vehicle her luggage was being placed.

He stared at her for several moments, then motioned for her to get in.

The motor started. They lurched off in the dusk of the cold, wintry evening.

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing has ambitions to become an opera singer. She meets Kentfield Sargent, son of a wealthy shipper. Ken is also interested in Peggy Sage, prominent society girl. Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. Later Lily Lou explains her circumstances to the singer, expecting the offer to be withdrawn. She is invited to take the trip regardless and decides to do so.

Now Go On

The Frenchman motioned for her to get into the cab.

HEART OF A WIFE

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Learns Dicky Planned Bungalow

"Dicky!" I turned and held out my hands to my husband, as the full meaning of Harry Underwood's nonsensical command to him to "flap your wings and take your bow" came to me. It had been his plan, this surprise in which all the members of the household were so interested. I knew he had planned this studio bungalow in order that I should have the solitude I needed during the writing of the fourth act of my play.

"I don't deserve all the credit," Dicky said. But his hands which had closed tightly on mine did not lessen their grasp. "All I did was to think of it. Then I beat it and the rest of them did the work."

"If by the rest you mean Jim and Katie and the Thcer family," Lillian said, "grant you they've been worthy of their hire. But all that the rest of us have been doing could be put in a pint cup. We've gone over Dicky's very careful plans and looked wise."

"You never saw such careful and elaborate plans as the Dicky-bird left for the construction of this bungalow," she went on. "Nothing was left to chance. He must have sat up several nights, all night long."

"But how did you ever manage to get it begun and finished while we were gone?" I queried, looking up at my husband who still held my hands so tightly that I could not release them even if I had wished to do so.

"It's a marvelous achievement, I grant you," Lillian said, smiling. "But not quite so miraculous as that. It was begun several days ago, and at the time you left every foundation post had been cut and measured as had all these lovely posts and rails on the veranda. If you hadn't been so busy and had chanced to walk up into the woodlot the day you left you would have seen the most of this bungalow sawed and piled ready to bring down here and put together as soon as your back should be turned."

I looked at Dicky in amazement.

"And you were planning this for me all the time"—my voice trailed off into silence—for not before others could I finish that sentence in the way that I had mentally concluded it.

But Dicky was not so reticent. "All the time that I was beefing about your being tied up with the play?" he queried. "Yep, that was my little way of apologizing for being so crudely archaic. I trust my little apology is accepted."

"It's filed for consideration, at least," I told him, dropping a curtsey, and Lillian struck in emphatically.

"Nobody but Dicky can show off all the gadgets of this thing," she said, "so I move that the rest of the merry villagers sing tra la-la-la-la as they troop down the mountainside, and leave the hero and heroine in their sylvan retreat."

"Oh, not us." Junior and Roderick wailed with one accord.

"Well! I like your nerve," Harry Underwood struck in. "How do you think I'm going to get along fixing up that barbed wire fence along the pasture so the Chinese can't get in unless you're with me?"

I started with surprise. It was the first time I had known that Junior and Roderick had been told anything about the menace of the Chinese to the farmhouse family. Hank and Bill, of course, were doing real patrol duty in their hunt for the former henchman of Lee Chow, who had come to me under the compulsion of a mysterious mandate from a leader of a rival Chinese organization. But I had not dreamed that the two smaller boys were concerned at all in the bizarre plans for defense which the outlandish methods of the Orientals had made necessary for us.

"Gee! we forgot," they chorused. And in another minute they had trooped out after Mr. Underwood, and the others were moving out of the door in front of Lillian who gave somewhat the ludicrous impression of shooting a flock of refractory hens away from the kitchen door.

Lillian lingered behind the rest for an instant.

"I'm cheating," she said, "the rest will kill me, but I did want to hand congratulations to you both, Madge on possessing this thing and Dicky on having had sense enough to plan it for her."

She gave us a friendly wave of her hand, whisked out of the door and closed it after her, leaving Dicky and me alone in the bungalow he had planned for me with such loving care.

MANOR CHAPTER

At the Manor Chapter last Saturday the boys and girls were delighted with the show put on by Anthony Marcare, popular Pittsburgh magician. One little fellow who had a live "bunny" taken from his pocket, is still wondering where it came from.

Another little chap who was called to the stage from the audience had a boquet of flowers taken from his coat pocket, much to the delight of the youngsters. After the magician had performed many more tricks Manager Blowitz called all the children who had birthdays last week to the stage and presented each with a birthday cake.

The Boy Scouts from the Squirrel Hill district closed the meeting with the usual Boy Scout ceremonies.

Uncle Bob, that lovable chap who reads the Sun-Telegraph comics on the radio to his little niece "Betty" will be on the air tonight at 6 o'clock over WCAE. Be sure to have your Sun-Telegraph comics ready.

The Little New House

I never see a little house,
So shining and so new,
But that I think of hearts untried
Where dreams go trooping through.

For every small, new house must wait
And wonder who will come
Along the walk and through the door
To make of it a home.

And every little flowered room
Must wear its gayest smile,
Though touched, perhaps with wistful doubt
Just sometimes, for a while.

And every nook and hall must be
So welcoming and brave.
It waits with such a hopeful air
The future, glad or grave.

I never see a little house,
So eager and so new,
But that I think of proud young souls
Where dreams go marching through

Conditions are rapidly being improved, as the following items, selected at random, clearly indicate:

WASHINGTON. — Assistant Chief Budgetmaker Col. Oliver will adopt the suggestion made by Calvin Coolidge to mimeograph Government bulletins on both sides of each sheet of paper.

HOLLYWOOD—Panhandlers are now grossing as high as $14 a day, as compared to $2.75 a week ago. The explanation is that they hire jobless film extras with babes in arms to trail along and create sympathy.

BRISBANE (Australia.) —Jobless women here have decided to parade the streets nude in order to call attention of the Government to their plight.

SALT LAKE CITY.—A district court order issued here forbids President Thomas, University of Utah, from presenting the wearing of corsages at the annual junior prom tonight.

Hamlet On the Links

"To tee or not to tee—that is the question—
Whether 'tis nobler for the pie-eyed duffer
To dig up gobs of earth to be retrieved
By rakes and harrows of outraged sward keepers,
Or to take arms against a sea of divots,
To erase to make a plowshare of the mashie,
And paste the pill instead. To loft, to lob,
To foozle or to flub—perchance to slice.
But there's the fear of plunking in the rough,
That oft-discovered country where the dub
Disports the major portion of his time."

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

How Now, Mr. Herron?

A Statement from the President of Council About the Traffic Ordinance Would Be Interesting.

Councilman Robert Garland has joined P. J. McArdle and W. Y. English in advocating immediate passage of the codified traffic ordinance.

The ordinance contains, among other desirable provisions, an arrangement by which the vicious "tag-fixing" system would be abolished. Under the system councilmen and influential politicians let their friends violate the traffic regulations with impunity.

"Tag-fixing" is immoral in principle and an unsound business practice. The city needs the many thousands of dollars of potential fines for illegal parking that go uncollected. The money would help in unemployment relief.

Every councilman should make it plain whether he is for or against the proposed ordinance. An expression from John S. Herron, president of Council and frequently a spokesman for the Kline administration, is especially desirable.

When will the bill come to a vote, Mr. Herron?

The Wabash Tunnel

The Views of the Advocates of Its Purchase by the County Are Entitled to Careful Consideration.

The County Commissioners are expected to hold another hearing soon on the proposal that the Wabash Bridge and tunnel be purchased and operated as a new vehicular artery to the southwestern part of the county.

The project does not lend itself to snap judgment. There is much to be said both for and against it.

The advocates of the plan are entitled to their innings. They are for the most part men whose views command respect. Among them are downtown business men representing property holdings in the lower part of the Golden Triangle with an assessed valuation of $100,000,000. Heavy taxpayers already, they would not lightly indorse a scheme calling for the expenditure of millions by the county.

The County Commissioners owe these taxpayers the most careful consideration of their proposals.

Unfair Water Rates

Boroughs and Townships Served by South Pittsburgh Company Might Well Join with Dormont Complainant.

The hearing set for yesterday on the complaint of James W. Jones, of Dormont, that the rates of the South Pittsburgh Water Company are unfair, has been indefinitely postponed by the Public Service Commission.

This is an important case, and one in which the boroughs and townships served by the South Pittsburgh Company might well join with the Dormont complainant in a demand for fair rates.

The customers of the South Pittsburgh Water Company pay far more than the patrons of the city's water works. The company's service charge, too, is felt by many persons to be unreasonable.

It is to be hoped that the Public Service Commission will go into the matter thoroughly.

Unprotected Autos

Every Car Owner Should Be Prepared to Pay for Any Damage He May Cause.

A situation that is far from creditable is disclosed in the Pittsburgh Motor Club's announcement that 1,147,500 automobiles, or slightly more than two-thirds of all the cars in the state, are not insured against personal liability or property damages.

The Motor Club interprets the figures as showing that "a pedestrian or an automobile owner who suffers injuries or damages through negligence on the part of a driver has only one chance in three to collect compensation through insurance."

Many of the two-thirds who are not insured would, of course, voluntarily pay for any injuries or property damage for which they were responsible, and still others could be forced to pay through a lawsuit.

But it would simplify matters and prevent undeserved losses if every motorist would protect himself against such claims by carrying liability insurance.

New Occupations

Ingenious Persons Are Finding Ways of Making a Living.

Necessity is the mother of invention.

Unemployed persons are finding new ways of making a living.

The Department of Forests and Waters reports, for example, that many jobless men in the mountainous sections of Pennsylvania are making money by gathering "mountain tea" or wintergreen and distilling oil of wintergreen from it.

A man can pick about 75 pounds of wintergreen a day, and from 200 pounds 11½ pounds of oil are extracted.

The economic situation is developing alertness and resourcefulness.

THE HEARST PAPERS ADVOCATE:

1—"Honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none."—George Washington.
2—Proportional representation in the United States Senate—no state to have less than two Senators.
3—Abolition of the electoral college—election of the President and Vice President by plurality vote of the nation.
4—End of lame duck sessions. Installation of President and Congress immediately following election.
5—Army, Navy and Aviation—all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
6—Vigorous federal action under a Secretary of Education to abolish illiteracy in the United States.
7—Federal sales tax and excise taxes to replace the income tax which has degenerated into a racket.
8—Five-billion dollar federal loan for public works and to relieve unemployment.
9—Construction of Nicaragua Canal for commerce and defense, advocated by Hearst papers since 1895.
10—Acquisition of French and English West Indies as part payment on debts to United States.
11—Selective immigration to admit only those suited for American citizenship and American needs.
12—Deportation of undesirable aliens and extension of preliminary citizenship period to 10 years.
13—Modification of Volstead act to permit light wines and beers under federal regulation.
Calendar year of 13 months of four weeks each, all holidays to fall on Saturday.
Five-day working week or a six-hour working day to provide more jobs and better conditions for workers.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Life's Lemonade

There is overproduction of everything in this country—except marrying men.

* * *

The great trouble with the modern lover is that he is always trying to be "God's Gift" to several women at the same time.

* * *

If a man loves and rides away, the girl hates him; if he loves and lingers, she marries him. So, what chance has the poor boy?

When the old-fashioned woman felt sentimental she got out all her yellow old love-letters and wistfully recalled "how those men loved her"; when the modern woman feels that way she gets out all her yellow old divorce papers and bitterly recalls how she "loved those men."

* * *

All a girl asks in marriage is a charming lover, a good provider and a companionable pal, but, also, the law won't permit her to marry three men.

* * *

The "eternal triangle" no longer consists of two women and a man or of two men and a woman, but of a man, a woman—and the woman's job.

* * *

When a girl marries she is sometimes surprised to discover that her first name as well as her last has been changed. Before marriage she is called "Darling" or "Honey"—after marriage, just "Say——"

A man can be in love—or dead—and be totally unconscious of it, but when he's in jail or married, he KNOWS it.

* * *

A woman's power over a man is something that she never loses—until she tries to USE it.

* * *

Cynicism is just the cry of pain that escapes from a sentimentalist when he has gotten a shot of lemon juice in the eye.

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

An old-timer is a man who can recall seeing girls blush.

Folks who have a few minutes to spare usually bother others who haven't.

Every automobile accident is caused by jay walkers or jay drivers.

When a man runs for office he finds out mean things about himself that he never dreamed of before.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 17.—That many-sided and much traveled genius from Marysville, Mo.—Homer Croy—is indexing his world-wide roundup of epitaphs. They have been salvaged from all points of the compass to go into a volume promising much toward shaking off the gathering gloom.

The most quoted of epitaphs is Dorothy Parker's: "Excuse my dust." And a formidable runner-up is Harry Hershfield's: "Here lies the body of Harry Hershfield, if not please notify Ginsberg and Co., undertakers, immediately." Frank Condon's is: "At last a hole in one."

There's futility in Don Herold's: "I thought it would end like this." But Chic Sale thinks: "A mighty, mighty purty job." Then there's Don Marquis': "Who, me?"; William MacLeod Raine's: "This is on me;" Earl Derr Biggers': "The Last Installment," and Stan Laurel's: "My last appearance on this lot."

Other epitaphs waiting to be chipped out of stately granite are: "At peace at last—another bridge-playing husband;" "The only man on the hill who has not borrowed on his life insurance;" "Victim of the Depression" and the couplet: "Dust proof I lie 'neath this terrain, snuggly wrapped in cellophane."

In Woolworth churchyard, England, Mr. Croy ran across this one: "Sacred to the memory of Maj. Brush, Royal Artillery, who was killed by the accidental discharge of a pistol by his orderly, April 14, 1831. Well done, good and faithful servant!"

From a tombstone near San Diego: "This here is sacred to the memory of William Henry Thompson, who came to his death by being shot by a Colt's revolver, one of the old brass-mounted kind. Of such is the kingdom of Heaven." On a stretch of Arizona desert: "They got me, podner!"

But most hilarious of all is by the self-effacing Lowell Thomas:

"Here lies the bird
Who was heard
By millions of people
Who were waiting
To hear Amos 'n' Andy."

* * *

A Tin Pan Alley song writer dramatizes each of his many love jilts with a mock suicide. Upon the last occasion he gulped a thin potion of iodine and was carried off in a clanging ambulance. On the way he snatched up failing covers and snarled at the interne: "What's the idea? Want me to catch pneumonia?"

* * *

O, yes. Burns Mantle's proposed epitaph is: "My last seat on the aisle." And Eddie Guest's: "Dealt and passed."

* * *

I watched a musical play from a lofty perch in the flies the other night. What impressed me was the absence of old-time noise and confusion. Everything clicked in soft mechanical perfection without even a whisper.

* * *

Depression has produced freakish twirls in the mercantile world. It might be imagined worse sufferers would be de luxe jewelers. Yet one on the avenue—Cartier's, if you are a precisionist—is authentically reported to have enjoyed one of the biggest turnovers during 1931. Fortunates with cash, fearing usual investments—turned to precious stones, hoping present low prices would bring a rise in better days.

* * *

Will H. Hays, who has never taken an intoxicating drink, spurns all offers with: "Not any more, thanks!" This stifles argument. The late minstrel, Willis P. Sweatnam, incidentally, used to philosophize: "One drink is plenty. Two too much and three not enough."

* * *

Overheard near the Globe: "He was on fire, but I gave him a swell icing."

* * *

Speaking of Cartier's, it's façade is reproduced in a current musical comedy. A furred and nouveau riche lady is being salaamed out by the frock coated salesman and his brace of cavaliers. In stepping into her limousine she chirps to the gold-roped doorman: "I love the way they do things here. It brings out the Roxy in me."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You want love. Love is life's biggest adventure. Love, you are sure, would put adventure into your life, and beauty and wonder, if you could find it.

So all your life you have been looking for a love which would do that for you, but you have never found it. Even though you may be married and seemingly happy, you still have a secret feeling that you have never found love—not the perfect love for which you sought. Yet somewhere it must exist! Why, then, have you never come upon it in all your searchings?

BECAUSE YOU SEARCHED FOR THE WRONG THING.

You sought a certain, concrete experience. You had a definite notion about that experience. It was to be different from all other experiences. It was to have different symptoms, different reactions. It was to be an entirely new department in your life, and you were to stumble upon it unexpectedly, as Aladdin stumbled upon his treasure cave.

Nor did these notions about love seem fantastic to you. Everybody you knew had exactly the same notions. All the books you read, all the movies and shows, repeated the same theme. Such was love. That was how love came. And, having come, you could expect love to accomplish any miracle.

INDEED, IF IT DIDN'T ACCOMPLISH MIRACLES, YOU COULD BE PRETTY SURE IT WASN'T LOVE. If it didn't quiet all your discontent, soothe your rebellions, fill you full of new peace, joy, hope and self-confidence, then it wasn't love.

And so you went out looking for this marvel, waiting with breathless heart, for the magic to begin. But there is no magic, yet. Will you find it tomorrow, perhaps? Or the day after that?

NO, YOU WILL NEVER FIND SUCH A LOVE AS THAT. IT DOES NOT — IT CANNOT — EXIST.

Love is not a single, unique, isolated, wonder-working sensation. It is not a bolt from the blue, nor a genie from a bottle. It is not a particular disease, like measles, nor a sudden increase in blood pressure, like Rudy Vallee.

Love is not one experience, one desire, one fulfillment. Love is many experiences, many desires, many fulfillments and frustrations, all serving under one flag.

What do you bring to love?

You think you bring a blazing heart, but actually you do nothing of the sort. You bring, instead, all the tangled ends, all the muddled purposes and unsatisfied hungers of your life.

You are not really looking for a perfect mate. You are looking for someone who will lighten your loneliness, understand your cussedness, satisfy your desire, flatter your vanity, rest your weariness, alibi your cowardice, stimulate your laziness and help you wrangle your way through the bewildering and humiliating confusions of life.

All of these needs are in you. They are in you all the time. You can never be freed from them. And you bring them all to love—for the answering.

But how can Love answer all these needs?

Some of them, indeed, do not deserve to be answered. Many of them are entirely your own job which, if you have an ounce of spunk you could settle for yourself.

Some of them are beyond any man's answering. They are part of the soul's sad mystery.

Obviously, love should not and cannot answer needs such as these. And so they go unanswered, and after the first infatuation has worn off you say to yourself: "This isn't love after all. It isn't doing the things I thought it would do. There's something wrong."

There is something wrong. But it's in YOU, not in love.

Do not expect love to work miracles for you—to solve all your riddles for you. Be glad if you have discovered someone who will help you find a little comfort, a little inspiration, a little peace—someone who will be like a warm window shining through a dark night. That is ALL love can for for anyone. But that is a very great deal.

Speedy Aid Needed To Relieve Jobless

By I. MAURICE WORMSER

Reprinted by permission from a special article entitled "Relief for the Unemployed" in the March 9th Issue of the Commonweal Magazine.)

IN Marc Connelly's delightful play, "The Green Pastures," Noah says to God:

"Yes, suh, dis use' to be a nice, decent community. I been doin' my best to preach de word, but seems like every time I preach, de place jest goes a little mo' to de dogs. De good Lawd only knows what's gonter happen."

God then reveals himself to Noah as darkness falls, followed by a crash of lightning and a roll of thunder, and says:

"I am your Lawd. I am a god of wrath and vengeance an' dat's why I'm gonter destroy dis worl'."

I do not believe, of course, that the Lord is "gonter destroy dis worl'." But I do believe that this western world soon will destroy itself unless something be done speedily to alleviate present-day unemployment conditions.

The appropriation of $20,000,000 by the State of New York is as foolish as trying to put out a city conflagration with a garden hose. It exhibits a LAMENTABLE LACK OF VISION.

Dr. John A. Ryan, of the Catholic University of America, has said:

"The $20,000,000 relief program of Gov. Roosevelt for New York State will not go very far when between 1,250,000 and 1,500,000 are unemployed in New York State."

So, also, the application by the City of New York of substantially the same sum to relieve 750,000 of the unemployed in New York City is a sample of the "juggling in high places."

The easy isolation of the lives of most of us within the safe confines of our own selfish well-being will prove to be not only bad morals and bad religion, but also excessively bad business. We must look things squarely in the face. My suggestions made nearly a year ago is that there shall be a bond issue of the United States of not less than $5,000,000,000. We issued bonds during the World War for the benefit of the Belgian babies. WHY NOT ISSUE A FEW NOW FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE BABIES OF THE UNITED STATES?

We issued bonds during the World War for shrapnel, dreadnaughts, poison gas and dynamite. WHY NOT ISSUE A FEW NOW TO PROVIDE BREAD AND BUTTER TO FEED STARVING MEN AND WOMEN, FOR THERE ARE SUCH—"stand-pat" senatorial sneers notwithstanding—and TO PROVIDE SHELTER FOR THE HOMELESS? It is better to place a chattel mortgage on the future than to impress the seal of bankruptcy on the present.

IN "Frankenstein, Incorporated," I stated there are over 5,000,000 able bodied men out of work. Father Ryan testified before the La Follette sub-committee, studying economic conditions, that there are between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 unemployed, and that the resultant annual salary loss is $10,000,000,000.

The relief MUST COME FROM THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. It must take the form of a bond issue for the purpose of immediately giving employment to the unemployed on public improvements and work of one nature or another.

It would bring out hoarded funds. Stuart Chase states that "the blue-prints for the useful expenditure of huge sums are already in the files of the federal engineers, and work may be started any day without waste or lost motion."

In the program for public directly, to practically all of the unemployed, I would include school construction, road improvement, the elimination of all railroad grade crossings, necessary public buildings, Mississippi flood control, reforestation, the improvement of river and lake navigation, slum clearance, and the building and maintenance, above all else, of great parks and recreational centers, so that the children of today may be given the same chance to enjoy life that you and I had 25 to 50 years ago.

What, also, about constructing systems to take care of the overflow of our great reservoirs, for use in days of water famine? What, also, about meeting and solving the problem of sewage disposal which makes bathing in the public waters about our great cities a menace to health and even to life?

EX-GOV. SMITH, to his great credit, recently squarely took the stand that relief for the unemployed is the most serious problem before the country, and that an attractive remedy can be found in a federal bond issue. The country, he said, is not on a peace-time basis.

"You have got to say that we are in a state of war—war against unemployment, malnutrition and the disease and the suffering that grows from it. We need a federal public works administration clothed with that plenary power we gave to men during war time, to carry this war on, to cut through, slash, tear out the red tape that is occasioned in the ordinary peace-time conduct of government."

IN an emergency extreme measures are necessary. When there was a lack of housing, following the suspension of all construction activities during the World War, the New York State Legislature enacted the emergency rent legislation which prevented landlords from securing possession even of their own properties, and permitted the tenant to remain in possession upon payment of a fair and reasonable rent. This avoided widespread suffering and grave hardship. These laws were sustained by the highest courts of both the state and the nation.

Economic law alone CANNOT be permitted to dictate what we shall do. In an emergency the social responsibility of the nation must be heeded. Not for a moment, however, do I concede that government relief taking the form of a bond issue for the unemployed and their dependents will violate any law of economics or of public policy.

To the contrary, it seems to me that such a bond issue would be one of the most valuable steps in the process of reconstruction. Incidentally, it would serve to solve possibly a most important social problem of our era, the frightful conditions incidental to the congested slum districts in our great cities. In a word, you kill two birds with one stone.
